SENSATIONAL NOULENS CASE DEVELOPMENT

MYSTERY RADIO MESSAGE

SOVIET REPUBLIC OF CHINA!

AN EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS

Shanghai, July 20.
An amazing wireless message picked up in Shanghai yesterday affords a sensational development in the case against the two alleged foreign Communists, Mr. and Mrs. Noulens.

The message consisted of an offer by the "Provisional Government of the Soviet Republic of China" to release all missionaries held as prisoners by the various Soviet districts in China in exchange for the release by the Nanking Government of Mr. and Mrs. Noulens.

The offer was embodied in a remarkable manifesto, which appears to have been sent over the air from the "Red Capital," Juching, in Kiangsi.

It was received in Shanghai late yesterday afternoon and its disclosure caused a great sensation.

NANKING "WHITE TERROR"

The Government of the Soviet Republic of China, which recently sent a message of encouragement to Filipino Communists it will be recalled, declares its willingness to defend the Noulens couple, whom it describes as friends of the Chinese Revolution and expresses its determined opposition to the "White Terror" of the Nanking Government.

It charges the Nanking Government with adopting a policy of capitulation before Imperialist pressure and requests the "International Committee for the Rescue of the Noulens" to enter into negotiations with the Nanking Government with a view to effecting an exchange of the Nanking prisoners for captured missionaries.—Reuter.

HARBIN PONTOON COLLAPSE

HUNDREDS THROWN INTO RIVER

Harbin, July 20.

An overcrowded and rotting pontoon at the Yacht Club beach, with a hundred trippers of all ages standing about waiting for a ferry, collapsed yesterday evening, throwing everyone into the river.

Terrible scenes were witnessed, but as far as can be ascertained no lives were lost, though artificial respiration had to be applied in numerous cases.

Dozens of rescuer-sportsmen and life-savers dived for hours and dragged from the river numerous women, clasping their children.—Reuter.

CHILE AIR-LINER DISASTER

Valparaiso, July 19.

A terrible air disaster occurred near the Chilean capital to-day. The Pan-American-Grace air-liner, San Jose, a huge passenger-carrying plane, flying from Santiago de Chile to Buenos Aires to-day, was wrecked in a snowstorm forty miles to the north-east of Santiago.

The air-liner was carrying ten persons at the time of the crash and all were killed.—Reuter.

The Manila Observatory, reporting at 9.30 a.m. to-day says the typhoon is crossing Northern Luzon, moving W. or W.N.W.

PHANTOM STATE OF MANCHUKUO

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

London, July 20.

The news of the apparently grave illness of the Earl of Lytton, the chairman of the League's Manchuria Commission, is deplorable, says the News-Chronicle in an editorial on the Far Eastern situation to-day.

The difficulties of the unfortunate League of Nations Commission in Manchuria were grave enough, the journal says, without any unnecessary addition thereto.

NEED FOR FIRMNESS.

Lord Lytton has shown firmness in resisting the impudent attempts of the so-called Manchukuo Government to dictate to the Commission, but the need for firmness is only beginning and it is not the "phantom State of Manchukuo" which will really test the energy and capacity of the Commission.

There is, says the News-Chronicle, a much more formidable claimant to its attention.—Reuter.

LADIES IN MOTOR COLLISION

ONE ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Miss M. Braga, of 10, Knutsford Terrace, and Mrs. L. M. Remedios, of 1, Albany, Peak Road, had a somewhat alarming experience yesterday afternoon when a motor car which the former lady was driving came in collision with a bus in Nathan Road, at its junction with Kimberley Road.

Miss Braga was driving the car towards her residence from the direction of the Ferry and when turning into Kimberley Road she collided with a bus which was travelling in the opposite direction. Both vehicles were damaged, although not to any serious extent.

Mrs. Remedios received injuries to her head and was taken to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from concussion, cuts and bruises.

READER SUPPORTS MR. M.K. LO.

A reader, signing himself "Citizen," writes us as follows:

As one who has his office in the centre of the town I can amply endorse Mr. M. K. Lo's remarks at yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board concerning the following:

(2) Whenever there is the slightest breeze, garbage being being loaded is blown about the

CHAOYANG BOMBED

Peking, July 20.

Six Japanese aeroplanes bombed Chaoyang yesterday, according to a telegram received by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang.

Official circles deny any knowledge of the Ishimoto incident, ostensibly the reason for the alleged attack on Jehol, and consider that it is merely another pretext for action which the Japanese military have long been contemplating.

It is pointed out that according to Japanese reports, Ishimoto was carried away by irregulars at a place located within Manchukuo territory and that, therefore, the area was under Japanese control not Chinese.

PREPARED TO RESIST.

It is further stated that no Government troops have been involved in any fighting, which has only been between Japanese troops and irregulars, but if Japanese troops attempt to penetrate into Jehol, Tang Yulin is prepared to resist the invasion with all the troops at his disposal.

The Japanese troops in the Chingchow and Chaoyang areas are believed to number between six thousand and eight thousand.

SERIES OF INCIDENTS.

According to the vernacular newspapers, there have been a series of minor incidents in the past week arising from Mongol bandit activities.

It is alleged that these incidents were instigated by the Japanese military authorities, strengthening the general belief that the Japanese will attempt to invade the difficult Jehol country sooner or later.

GROUND PREPARED.

Foreign circles are at present undecided whether the Ishimoto episode is an isolated incident or the beginning of the invasion of Jehol, for which the ground has been prepared for some weeks by constant propaganda by the Japanese Information Bureau at Pientsin, which is believed to voice the views of the Japanese Army.

The balance of opinion here is that major trouble is not likely to occur before the Lytton Commission leaves China, but, of course, it is impossible to predict the line likely to be taken by the Japanese military authorities.

LEGATION DENIALS.

Meanwhile, Japanese Legation circles discredit the stories that an invasion of Jehol is impending.—Reuter.

The Hongkong Stock Exchange reports that there was a scaling down of prices in most of the speculative issues yesterday afternoon, partly due to settlement influences. A fair amount of trading was put through on the lower basis established, the main portion of which was in liquidation of settlement accounts.

A REPLY TO DR. POPE

TUNG WAH CHOLERA INTERVIEW

THE FULL STORY

Mr. M. K. Lo's questions to the Medical Officer of Health at yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board, based upon an interview on Tung Wah Hospital cholera cases, given by Dr. Pope, and published in the Telegraph and S. C. M. Post, produced an allegation by the M. O. H. that he was incorrectly reported.

The suggestion that the statements were inaccurately attributed to the M. O. H. is surprising. Dr. Pope had many previous opportunities of correcting any alleged inaccuracies, but did not avail himself of them. Moreover, our reporter refutes Dr. Pope's suggestion.

THE FACTS.

The circumstances associated with the interviews may be stated as follows:

On June 29, in an interview with a Telegraph reporter, Dr. Pope said: A large proportion of the cases shown in the returns were taken out of the Tung Wah Hospital where they had been receiving native treatment.

Since Saturday, the authorities have been examining patients of the Tung Wah and other hospitals where native medicine is practised, and have removed all cases of cholera. The comment revealed that many cases were receiving treatment by native doctors, and the patients were accordingly removed.

ANOTHER INTERVIEW.

In an interview published in the Daily Press on June 30, Dr. Pope said: The local Medical Authorities, suspecting that Chinese cases of the disease might be receiving native treatment, conducted a search, and succeeded in unearthing sixteen cases of cholera receiving Chinese treatment in Chinese hospitals. These cases were of course immediately isolated, and official notification followed as a matter of course, the fact that sixteen cases had been officially notified in one day being stated in the usual manner on the official returns.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS.

On June 30, the Telegraph sent a reporter to Dr. Pope with specific instructions to enquire whether any action was contemplated in connexion with the suggestion in these two distinct interviews that the Tung Wah Hospital had failed to notify cases of cholera.

Certain prepared questions were submitted to Dr. Pope and the published interview, the accuracy of which was yesterday denied in terms suggesting invention by the reporter, was based on Dr. Pope's replies. Our reporter (Continued on Page 7.)

MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

SAID TO HAVE SHOT WIFE FIRST

A family tragedy in Tung Kun, in Chinese territory, has been revealed to the local authorities by the admission to the Kowloon Hospital of a married woman, who is stated to have been shot by her husband.

No details of the affair are available, but the woman, Leung Yeung, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday suffering from a bullet wound in her chest. It is stated that she was shot by her husband, Wong Fuk, in their native village of Om Shun Tau.

The incident is reported to have occurred on Wednesday last, and it is further stated that on Thursday Wong Fuk committed suicide. Leung Yeung was brought to Hongkong by her relatives for treatment. Her condition is regarded as serious.

LAMBETH BRIDGE OPENING

KING'S SPEECH AT CEREMONY

London, July 19.

The new five-span bridge across the Thames at Lambeth, erected at a cost of $550,000, was opened by His Majesty the King this afternoon.

The bridge is an extremely graceful structure, built of steel and covered with a skin of granite. It has impressive pylons topped by lights at the approaches, and forms a very important part in the planning of London's traffic arrangements by opening up a new east-to-west route across the capital, thereby easing congestion elsewhere.

The bridge was designed by Sir Reginald Blomfield and erected by Messrs Dorman, Long, the well-known engineers.

NOVEL OPENING.

The actual opening ceremony took a novel form. After the King and Queen had signed the Council's records, His Majesty used a pen to make an electric contact which caused the barriers across the bridge to rise perpendicularly into the air, Union Jacks breaking from their tops.

Thousands of schoolchildren who lined the bridge burst into cheers and trumpeters of the Life Guards blew a fanfare.

KING'S SPEECH.

Replying to an address, His Majesty the King recalled that since his parents opened the former Lambeth bridge fifty-three years ago, great alterations had occurred in the social conditions of London. The population of the vast area called Greater London had increased by three millions and among other new phases had been the coming of the motor car. Fresh problems had been created for the local authorities by these changes.

To guide and control the development of London, improve its housing, and raise the standard of the ever-growing amenities of daily life were described by the King as tasks of paramount importance and complexity.

WORKMEN PRESENTED.

After expressing his personal interest in London's traffic problems, His Majesty said the new Lambeth bridge would remain a monument to the skill and energy of the engineers, architects and all grades of workers to whom he offered his congratulations on the completion of their great enterprise.

Four workmen, a mason, a steel erector, a pier sinker and a clerk of works representing the men who built the bridge, were presented to the King.—British Wireless.

SEVEN KILLED IN C.E.R. WASHOUT DISASTER

Harbin, July 20.

Seven persons were killed in a railway smash on the Chinese Eastern Railway on Sunday, and from details of the mishap which have just reached Harbin, it would appear that the Trans-Siberian express narrowly escaped the disaster.

The wreck occurred about sixteen miles to the east of Pokotu, a freight-train travelling westward jumping the track and overturning, carrying numerous wagons with it.

The mishap was due to the flooding of the River Yalu, which washed out a section of the line, undermining the track.

The Trans-Siberian express had passed safely over the same section of the line only thirty minutes before the freight-train came to grief.

The driver and his assistant were both killed, as were five men who were stealing a ride in the goods-wagons, sixteen of which were completely smashed.—Reuter.

BOWLERS GET A SHOWING

MACAULAY UPSETS ALL-INDIA

Having conspired for some time to give batsmen complete dominance in county cricket, the weather has been conferring its favours on bowlers in the last three days, though few matches reached a definite conclusion.

Hampshire, Notts (against Middlesex) and Warwick (v. Gloucester) were winners in the County championship and Yorkshire defeated All-India by six wickets in a keen friendly encounter.

Bates hit up 211 for Warwick and Sandham scored 154 not out for Surrey. These were the only players to reach three figures. Macaulay's 8 for 21 against All-India and Larwood's 7 for 57 against Middlesex were the outstanding bowling achievements. Details on the Sports Page.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN SPY "PERIL"

Hankow, July 20.
Like the greater part of the Yangtze Valley, Hankow is sweltering under the most severe heat-wave for several summers and the thermometer is daily soaring to over a hundred degrees in the shade.

The blazing heat has persisted for several days and owing to the acute discomfort in Hankow, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has decided to remove his headquarters to Mount Lochna at Wu-chang.

In an official decree, connected with the anti-Communist campaign, Chiang Kai-shek warns his officers and men to beware against associating with beautiful women, who, he says, may be Communist spies.

FOUR PUNISHMENTS.

The Generalissimo adds that the punishment for those found to be disobeying the order will be in four stages, namely, reprimand, demotion, imprisonment and execution.

It is reported that the Communist forces under the notorious Ho Lung, who have been hard pressed by the Government troops, are attempting to flee to Hunan from South Hupeh, but the Government troops, aided by three gunboats, are checking the retreat.—Reuter.

ELECTION FEVER DEVELOPS

(Reuter's Special Service).

Berlin, July 19.
Party fever throughout Germany from one end to the other is working up to an exceedingly dangerous pitch, in view of the general elections to be held on July 31.

The fate of the Lausanne Agreement, of Germany's economic system, even that of the Republic's regime, will be at stake when Germany goes to the poll.

The activities of the Hitlerites and the Communists are fomenting disorders everywhere and there is a daily toll of casualties.

CONTRACT BRIDGE
By W. E. McKenney
The declarer in the following hand provides against unusual distribution by carefully watching his re-entries to dummy.

The Bidding.
While South's hand contains five and one-half quick tricks it should not be opened with a forcing two-bid, as the hand contains more than three losing cards. The correct bid is one spade. West passes, North two diamonds, East passes, and now South can put in his forcing bid of three hearts. This requires the bidding to be kept open until game is arrived at. North would dare respond with four hearts and South should go to six.

The Play.
West has the opening lead and his proper play is the jack of clubs. A small club is played from dummy. West continues with the ten of clubs, a small club is played from dummy and declarer trumps with the five of hearts.

The declarer might try to run out spades, but if he should find five in one hand the contract would be defeated. His best chance is to try and set the diamonds so that the losing spades may be discarded, but he must watch his entries. Therefore before leading trump declarer plays the king of diamonds and then a small diamond to dummy's ace. The six of diamonds is returned from dummy and East discards the deuce of spades, declarer trumping with the eight of hearts. Declarer now plays his ace and king of hearts and then his last heart, the nine spot, to dummy's queen. This picks up the outstanding trump. Three good diamonds are led from dummy, declarer discarding his three losing spades.

Declarer then leads the six of spades to his ace and wins the last trick with the king of spades, making his contract of six odd.

A LOCAL WEDDING.
CATHEDRAL CEREMONY ON MONDAY LAST
A pretty wedding was solemnised by the Rev. L. N. Watkins at St. John's Cathedral on Monday afternoon, when Miss Elsie May Robinson, the daughter of Mr. Robinson of Dunedin, New Zealand and the late Mrs. Robinson, became the bride of Mr. Francis Masters Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry, of Martinborough, Wellington, New Zealand.
The bride, who was dressed in light navy blue, georgette with peach coloured lace and hat to tone, was given away by Mr. A. V. Prince. Her bouquet was of peach coloured gladioli.
Mrs. Christie discharged the duties of matron of honour, and wore a floral georgette frock. The best man was Mr. F. Neill.
Following a reception at the residence of Mrs. Christie at Lyttleton Road, the happy couple left for Repulse Bay Hotel for their honeymoon, the bride's going away dress being of pink flowered voile and a light hat.

LIVELY SANITARY BOARD DEBATE
REMARKS RESENTED

There was a spirited debate at the Sanitary Board yesterday on Mr. Lo's motion on improvements to the garbage collection system. The motion was eventually put before the meeting and carried.
Those present at the meeting were Mr. G. H. Sayer (President), Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Vice-President), Dr. G. W. Pope (M.O. H.), Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Mr. M. K. Lo, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shiu-fan, Mr. C. Champkin, Mr. J. H. Gelling (Secretary) and Mr. J. C. Lang (Assistant Secretary).

Mr. M. K. Lo, pursuant to notice, moved:
That, in the opinion of this Board, the existing arrangements for the removal of refuse are unsatisfactory from the point of view of public health and hygiene, and that in order to make such arrangements more satisfactory from the viewpoint stated, this Board respectfully recommends to the proper authorities:

i. That up-to-date specially constructed and equipped vehicles be obtained for refuse removal when the time comes for new vehicles to be ordered in place of the existing ones.

ii. That in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport, and

iii. That the existing hours of collection of refuse be reviewed and revised.

Mr. M. K. Lo said: This motion is the result of the H. S. D.'s reply to certain questions which I put to this Board a little time ago. The gist of the H. S. D.'s reply seems to be this:—That, for the present, he does not propose to make any alterations in the existing arrangements, either as regards the type of the vehicles or as regards the hours of collection. In my submission both are equally unsatisfactory.

As regards the hours of collection, I have received strong complaints from people who ought to know, that it is absolutely disgraceful to have lorries stationed outside or near places like Lane Crawford's Cake Shop in King's Theatre Building, with refuse lying all around, in the busiest hours of the day, namely, between one and two p.m. I asked that lorries should not be stationed outside places in which food is exposed for sale, and the H. S. D. replied that no discrimination is made in this respect, and that it is not proposed to make any. But the two reasons he gives as justifying this attitude seem to me to be singularly unconvincing.

Afternoon Collection.

I realise that it is very desirable that there should be two collections in the town proper in the twenty-four hours. But I submit that the second collection should not commence at 1.30 p.m. in the centre of the town. I do not wish to be dogmatic as to the ideal time to commence the second collection. But I have been informed that any arrangement which would obviate the collection about 1 and 2 p.m. is preferable to the present arrangement, and I suggest that the second collection should commence about 5. And I feel sure that if the H.S.D. were publicly to invite an expression of view on this point from those affected, it would be readily forthcoming.

As regards dust bont stations, I agree that as long as the present antiquated type of lorries are used, it is imperative that such stations should be established on the sea front at convenient points so as to avoid long journeys through the streets. But these stations in themselves are a source of great nuisance. If when dust proof vehicles are introduced I hope that one central station may be selected right out of the town, as there would be no objection in dust proof vehicles taking a little longer time in getting to the station.

Type of Lorries.

As regards the type of lorries used, I understand the H.S.D.'s reply to me to mean that none of the existing lorries is provided with covers, and I submit that this fact alone condemns the existing arrangement. I need hardly labour this point because most of us must have had the extremely unpleasant experience of driving or walking behind one of those lorries and against the wind.

My colleague, Mr. Bellamy, who is taking a deep interest in this matter, was kind enough to send me a copy of The Commercial Motor dated 7th June, 1932, and I see in it that the first article in the issue is entitled "The Importance of Cleanliness," and I should like to make the following quotations, which seem so relevant to our discussion:

"One of the most important events being held this week is the 34th Annual Conference of the Institute of Public Cleansing, which is taking place at Manchester. On Thursday there will also be a remarkably interesting display of power-propelled and other appliances, followed by a demonstration of their capabilities."

"Public cleansing in this country is attaining almost the position of a fine art, and the progress which has been made in this direction since the beginning of the century is truly remarkable. Perhaps it is just as well, because in few other countries in the world are there comparable conditions of congestion in the cities and important towns. Were it not for the work of the sanitary engineer and cleansing superintendent, assisted by manufacturers who have for years specialized in the production of cleansing appliances, the risk of the rapid spread of contagious diseases would be most grave."

No More Expensive.

"It has been proved in practice that the sanitary disposal of refuse, from both streets and houses, is no more expensive—in fact, often less so—than where insanitary methods are employed. Cleanliness is certainly next of godliness in this sphere of activity, as in many others, but even in the Metropolis one still finds examples of boroughs which pay far too little attention to this important matter. Even outside the very offices from which we

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Carey, 20 and beautiful, has become engaged to Ernest Heath, 40, her former employer. She has done so partly to provide for the future of her aunt who is ill and partly because she despairs of ever winning the man she really loves. Bob Dunbar, Denise Ackroyd, a debutante, dislikes Susan and causes trouble between her and Bob. Len Lammiman, a former admirer of Susan's, shows up at Heath and then turns the gun on himself. He recovers and the affair is hushed up. Susan realises she doesn't love Heath enough to marry him, but can not tell him so. She sees Bob at the theatre and this awakens old memories. Denise tells her that Susan is a "gold-digger" and she becomes very angry. Jack Waring, Heath's assistant, warns Susan not to marry without love.

CHAPTER XL

Denise sat before her taffeta-skirted dressing table, intent on the arduous business of making up. Her costume for the George Washington ball foamed over a chair and her powdered wig lay on the broadened bed spread. Her mother's English maid, pressed into duty for the occasion, hovered behind. Presently Denise stood up, satisfied at last with the effect she had produced, and, slim and supple in her single, diaphanous garment, permitted herself to be arrayed in the pale blue frock with huge panniers and lace underskirt. This done, she adjusted the wig over her own shining tresses. The effect was marvelous. Instantly her gamin prettiness was transformed into spectacular beauty. She was as dignified as a lady in an ancient portrait.

She tried the effect of an infinitesimal patch near the corner of one eye and liked it. Then she seized an atomizer and sprayed herself casually with scent.

"I think it's stupid the club committee insists on everyone wearing masks," complained Mrs. Ackroyd, watching the performance with interest. Stevens, the maid, slipped Denise's black mask into the pocket of her white fur wrap.

"No, not there. Give it to me now," the girl demanded impatiently. "I may as well put it on before I start." She tied and adjusted it with care. The effect of the mask added piquancy to the whole costume.

"You are a picture, miss," Stevens declared, with enthusiasm.

Denise snatched up her fan, allowed the wrap to be adjusted around her slim shoulders, and hurried downstairs. There a young grandee in biscuit coloured satin breeches and waistcoat of the same colour with lace frills at his wrists and buckled shoes on his feet awaited her. He, too, was masked.

"Come along. We're late," the girl said petulantly. The well-modelled lips of the young courtier curved in what seemed to be ill-humour.

"Whose fault is that?" he demanded. "I've been waiting for hours."

This Denise ignored. "It's going to be a poisonous party anyhow. I'm sure of that," she rattled on, fluttering down the steps and managing with difficulty to insert her beffled self within the confines of the waiting motor car.

"Everything's poisonous," muttered her escort, slamming the door.

"What did you say?" She eyed him suspiciously.

He growled, "Nothing at all," and subsided into his corner.

"You haven't a cigarette hidden about in all that lingerie, I suppose?" Denise wanted to know.

For answer the boy reached into the pocket of a coonskin coat slung over the back of the seat. He was an incongruous figure at the wheel of the big car, with his powdered wig and trappings of a blood of the late eighteenth century. It was strange to see him guiding this devil-machine of the twentieth century through the dark night. They should have had a coach and four.

No stranger was the slight Denise offered presently, a cigarette hanging limply from one corner of her elaborately rouged mouth.

"Why did you say everything is poisonous nowadays?" she demanded.

The man in the driver's seat threw her an annoyed glance. "I thought you missed that," he muttered.

"Me? I never miss anything," Denise told him airily. "I think I know what's gripping you."

"You're smart," said Bob Dunbar

with sarcastic intonation. "Aren't I, just?" She blew a cloud of smoke in his direction. "Let me tell you one thing, young fellow-my-lad. Daddy and your father have been getting together and they've decided they don't like the way you're behaving."

"So what?" the young man wanted to know.

"It was distinctly understood," Denise told him with dignity, "that we were engaged last summer. Oh, I know it wasn't announced or anything like that but you knew and Daddy did-and well, everybody."

The boy moved restlessly. "Last summer is a long time ago," he reminded her.

"Oh, yes?" Denise's voice took on a tinge of shrewishness. "Well, you can't get away with what you've been doing lately. We Ackroyds, (here she tossed her head with that familiar gesture), 'we have our pride'."

"What's all this got to do with me?" Bob muttered rebelliously. Denise's manner changed. Into her tone crept the cooling note of the mourning dove. "What's the use of quarrelling the way we do?" she asked. "You can be nice and so can I. We team well together."

Everyone's always said so. We like the same things and run with the same gang. The way I look at it, it all boils down to this. We have a better chance of making things go than most of the people we know. Daddy's awfully keen for it."

"As if I didn't know that," growled the boy.

"Well then, why not let's be sensible about it? Let's please everybody and surprise them, and stop this ridiculous rowing 'we've been doing all winter.' We've been enjoying her role of peacemaker now."

"I'm willing to bury the hatchet if you are," Denise went on. "If you like we needn't have a big wedding but just gallop away some place and have a justice marry us. That would be fun."

The man shrugged. "You've got it all worked out, haven't you?"

"That's because I know what's best for both of us," said Denise with sweet reasonableness. "I'm willing to overlook all the times you've been nasty to me and start with a clean slate."

"I guess you're the doctor," Bob said, compressing his lips. The girl's cigarette described a wide arc as she flung it from her. They were curving into the drive of the country club now. She reached over and patted his shoulder possessively.

"That's my own sweet boy," she cooed, holding up her lips for a kiss.

"What did you say?" Her partner put a firm, gentle hand on her arm and led her out like a blow. The scene was one of incredibly brilliant colour and movement. The shifting patterns which the dancers wove reminded her of scenes peered at through the lens of a kaleidoscope. She was thankful for the mask which had been sent with her costume. Thus furnished with anonymity, she felt braver, stronger. Why had Ernest insisted on her coming? It was odd. She had not expected to brave the terrors of his neighbourhood on the north shore until she was safely his wife. But Jack Waring, in Heath's absence, had informed her that the message had come over the telephone from New York. Heath had not been able to reach her before going into Maine on that land business. He had said he wished Waring to escort Susan to the George Washington ball. Her costume would be delivered to her.

Susan ran her fingers over the pale apricot of her spreading skirt. She knew the colour became her utterly. Waring had come dressed as an Indian tribal chief. He was magnificent with his headdress of feathers, the glaring colours of his blanket. Yet it was odd he had chosen to dress this way, escorting a lady in powdered wig.

"I don't understand it at all," Susan said to herself. "But how beautiful it all is. I'm glad I came."

She felt excited and happy. Some dancers swayed in a minuet at the end of the great ballroom. How lovely it was to watch the measured, stately steps, the curving and pirouetting. She forgot herself completely as she watched.

Then a jazz piece broke this interlude into fragments and the guests were ordered to swing about in a "Paul Jones." Susan looked about, bewildered, for Jack Waring. He was nowhere to be seen. As the orchestra stopped abruptly she found herself facing a cavalier in biscuit coloured jacket and breeches. Tall he was and very erect. Without a word, she slipped into his arms.

The tempo of the music quickened and the girl's heart beats with it. This was magic—dancing like this. Her partner was a complete stranger, someone she would never see again probably. She gave herself up to the enjoyment of the moment.

When the music ended she murmured involuntarily, "Oh, I'm sorry." At the words, her partner bent a bright, searching gaze upon her.

"Say that again." She stared at him through those small slits in the wrap of black cambric.

COOLIE SHOT BY DETECTIVE.

END TO BAMBOO FIGHT IN WANCHAI

A fracas in Wanchai yesterday evening, when two gangs of coolies fought with bamboo poles, resulted in a Chinese detective being hit over the head with a bamboo, and his shooting the refractory coolie in the leg.

The man, Tsui Kee, aged 23, was taken to the hospital, where his condition is not regarded as serious.

The commotion between rival gangs occurred in Tai Yung Street, a little before 7 o'clock, when large numbers of men armed with bamboo poles fought a pitched battle in the street.

A Chinese detective, who assisted in dispersing the mob, was turned upon by Tsui Kee who resisted arrest. He struck the detective over the head with his pole, the policeman's helmet alone saving him from injury.

The detective straightway pulled out his revolver and shot the man through the right leg.

of the melee of flushed and laughing revellers. As one in a dream Susan went with him.

"Now, then!" They were hidden from the throng by the plush curtains of a little alcove. The music came to them muted and wraithlike.

The cavalier in biscuit-coloured satin untied Susan's mask with strong, purposeful fingers. She dared not—indeed, she never even dreamed of opposing him.

"Ah!" The monosyllable roused her to realization of what was happening. Rich colour flooded her pale cheeks. She clasped her hands in a sudden tragic gesture.

"You!" she cried.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

It is no secret that the screen often makes actors and actresses look considerably younger than they do in actual life. Therefore, when stage players make their first appearance before the camera they are invariably assured by their friends that they will look twice as beautiful under the guidance of studio makeup experts.

This rule was reversed, however, when Helen Hayes, New York stage star, made her film debut in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," which will open at the Queen's Theatre on Sunday, for during the course of the story Miss Hayes was called upon to age some fifty years.

To secure this effect, the actress placed herself in the hands of Cecil Holland, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer grease paint expert. After various tests, a make-up was formulated which required one hour and a half to apply. The sagging effect on cheeks and forehead, characteristic of old age, was achieved by an artificial skin. Into this, natural appearing wrinkles were cut with a knife. Half an hour alone was required to give Miss Hayes the effect of a stringy neck, a process accomplished by lights and shadows in black, red and green. Red, placed along the inside rim of the eyelids, contributed a drawn look, and heavy shadows placed under the eyes added to fading youth.

It would be too much to expect the story of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" to be marked by the same poignant pathos which won a sympathetic admiration for "Stella Dallas" and "Madame X." It concerns the vivid adventures of a simple French village girl who throws away the peace and security of a provincial domesticity for the glamour of Paris.

The picture is an adaptation of Edward Knoblock's stage success, "The Lullaby," and was directed by Edgar Selwyn. The large cast includes besides Miss Hayes, Lewis Stone, Neil Hamilton, Robert Young, Cliff Edwards, Jean Hersholt, Marie Prevost, Karen Morley and others.

A few years ago Sophie Tucker "the last of the red hot mammas," gave the town of New Castle, Pa., the shock of its life, and the natives are still talking about the time she showed the town its first smutty town.

Sophie was followed down the street by an admiring throng and the newspapers proceeded to publish a detailed explanation of the construction of the new-fangled split skirt.

The leading merchant of New Castle induced Sophie to give a

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

BEAUTY HINTS.

Beauty Hints By Alicia Hart.

Several women have written for direction for making and using eye packs.

There are two reasons why these letters come at this time. One is that bright summer sunshine always hurts the eyes until they become accustomed to it. The second is that these little brats of hats expose the eyes cruelly. No wonder eyes hurt!

There are literally hundreds of eye packs you can use.

If you are in a hurry and want to rest your eyes, saturate some little pieces of cotton in the hottest water you can stand, lie down and plaster them over your eyes. Saturate them several times. Then, at about the third heating, try to catch a cat nap. Your eyes will feel immeasurably better, even if you only rest 10 minutes.

Remember it is the heat which helps your eyes quite as much as any medicinal quality certain packs contain.

Any reliable beautician sells eye packs. Or you can make your own. Crushed rose leaves, one part, and camomile tea, two parts, make a nice pack for home use. Make little tiny bags of cheese-cloth, double thickness. Cut them like eye spectacles, with the eye parts the leaves. Sew them up by hand.

When you want to use one of these, merely dip it into very hot water and apply immediately and lie down with it over the eyes. Do not redip this, unless you feel that the heat is doing quite as much good as the herbs.

Lavender and camomile tea make a nice eye pack, too. There are many herbs you can use. Their drawing qualities relax the eyes wonderfully.

But remember, whenever your eyes hurt very badly, lie down for a half hour with them thoroughly covered, to keep out all light. Your freshness after the nap will reward you.

This chiffon dance dress has a lot of things to recommend it. Its fabric is chiffon and its colour is green.

Then it has the long, sleek lines everybody likes and has the covered shoulders that are especially smart this year. These little tiered sleeves made of three ruffles of the chiffon, slip onto the neckline of the evening bodice and can be removed so you can have a sleek, sophisticated gown if you want it, or wear with a little velvet wrap.

These ruffles over the shoulder are graduated, so that they make the top one stick out to give a wide shouldered effect. The bodice itself has a sweet shirring in the front, up and down, and is tied in the back, with two long ends hanging like a diminutive train. You could, of course, tie them into a bow.

SMALL TALK.

Helps One in Social Life.

Small talk has been likened to the small change which is so necessary in making one's way about the world, and undoubtedly a large supply does facilitate one's passage through the stormy or still waters of social life.

Like money, too, it must be carefully valued as it is paid out for it is as disastrous to tender a stimulating or provocative remark at the wrong moment to the right person as it is to murmur an inane comment on the weather to the genius who never condescends to notice whether it thunders or snows.

The two great handicaps in producing an adequate supply of small talk when required I often think are originality and a sense of humour, because the possession of these qualities is apt to land one in all sorts of difficulties in hurried encounters, and the knowledge of this makes one a little nervous.

The obvious remark and the hackneyed phrase are simply invaluable to those who can bring themselves to use them, and unlucky indeed is he whose sense of humour forbids!—F. W. In Exchange.

Many a happy hour spoiled, many a hope destroyed by a condition none can ignore. We see it in others but never mention it. It causes stained, ugly yellow teeth, decay and gum diseases. Scientists call it Bacterial-Mouth.

When Ugly Bacterial-Mouth Is Removed
Mon. Tues. Wed.

TEETH WHITEN

3 shades in 3 days

TEETH CAN be sparkling white and sound by using the dentifrice that kills the germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth. That dentifrice is—KOLYNOS.

Use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for 3 days—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush morning and night. Then look at your teeth—fully 3 shades whiter.

Dentists have long advocated the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique as the one way to use a dental cream full strength and keep brush bristles stiff enough to clean every tooth surface and massage gums properly. Only Kolynos permits this approved technique.

When Kolynos enters the mouth, you can feel it foam into every pit, fissure and crevice. Germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth and lead to stain, decay and gum diseases are quickly killed and washed away.

If you want whiter, sounder teeth and firm pink gums start using Kolynos.

OTTAWA HOPES

The stage is now set for the Ottawa Conference, which is to be officially opened to-morrow. It is not too much to say that this gathering of Empire statesmen is attracting more attention than any other Imperial Conference yet held. Not only in the Old Country and the Dominions, but in all parts of the world there is a belief that big decisions are likely to mark the Ottawa discussions, materially helping, it is hoped, in the task of dissipating the prevailing depression. Above all else, a determined effort will be made to bring the various units of the Empire into real and lasting co-operation. If hopes are realised, the Ottawa Conference will be written down in history as marking the beginning of that closer understanding for which well-wishers of the Empire everywhere yearn.

It has been disclosed from the published agenda that practically every sphere of the Empire's problems will be explored. As the various currencies and monetary standards of the Empire are to come in for consideration, it is opportune to direct attention to recent views on this subject by prominent people who hope that this issue will be courageously dealt with. Sir Basil Blackett, the noted economist, thinks that some plan should be evolved for the development of an area, no longer a little economic unit like Great Britain, but a large economic unit within which there would be opportunities for the exchange of goods and service, and within which we could for the time being forget the gold standard, having in its place a sterling standard which would keep the exchange of goods and service within the area free from the fluctuations which arise from foreign exchange. In Sir Basil's view, if the Conference can succeed in reversing the trend of depression and deflation, it will not only help Britain, but also the Empire and the whole world, to start again with more hope. Lord Leverhulme points out that the international agreement which the Macmillan Committee advocated for stopping disastrous deflation has not materialised, with the result that many countries in Europe have reverted to barter by their bilateral agreements. The fact that Britain is finding it increasingly difficult to secure payment for her exports means, he says, that before long she may be obliged to enter into such agreements. If an international understanding is not feasible, Lord Leverhulme thinks the opportunity provided by Ottawa should be used to reach agreement between the various nations of the Empire, and then seek the co-operation of those other nations with whom agreement may be possible.

It will be seen, therefore, that there is a demand for very thorough-going handling of monetary problems at Ottawa, in which connexion also it may be noticed that the New Zealand Premier has directed attention to the fact that currency difficulties are an important cause in the grave reduction in the value of Dominion products. For this reason New Zealand thinks that the price level, currency and banking problems must be an important feature of the Conference. Britain, we know, is entering the Conference chamber with an open mind on these and other issues. Moreover, there have been numerous indications that the Dominions are animated by a spirit which will rule out any meticulous weighing of respective concessions. The task will not be easy, but with goodwill and a desire for mutual benefit, it should be possible to register concrete results of advantage to all.

Other Aspects.

The Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa promises to have repercussions far beyond the territories immediately concerned. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's decision to send several of his leading Cabinet Ministers to attend it indicates that Britain is well aware of this fact. The team selected includes Mr. Stanley Baldwin, and such experts in finance, economics and international law as Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. Walter Runciman and Lord Hailsham, besides a full staff of departmental officers led by the Secretaries of State for Dominion, Colonial and Agricultural Affairs. The reason for so strong a delegation is not far to seek. Not only are there possibilities never before existent of establishing a British Empire Customs Union, but it is beginning to be seen that other nations must be affected by anything of the kind. The new feature in the situation is that Britain, by adopting protection, has put itself for the first time in eighty-six years in a position to afford real favours to countries which reciprocate in kind. The conference is to build upon this, and map paths whereby goods may at through trade barriers now blocking world business. The task can be accomplished only gradually. Changes difficult to effect have to be made. Treaties promising "most favoured nation treatment"—lowest tariff rates—to other States stand in the way, and may have to be denounced. Existing inter-Empire contracts may also require modification. Only such mutual concessions as can be agreed upon in advance are at all likely to materialise while the conference is in session. The plan of procedure confines the Ottawa discussions to representatives of nations under the British flag. But Ottawa is to be followed by similar negotiations between Britain and other States. Denmark, Scandinavia and Holland have low tariffs, though capable of assimilation to the policy now adopted at Westminster, and are to be next approached. Other nations may be invited to join later on. A growing world circle of mutually lowered tariffs may thus develop. Freer trade relations generally are hoped for as the eventual outcome. The whole scheme is so vast that its implications have as yet only partially been realised, though Whitehall has been kept busy working out its programme. It is a hope, nevertheless, containing much that is good and much too that is by no means impossible of fulfilment.

DAY BY DAY

THE LIBERATOR GOES THROUGH THE WORLD WITHOUT MALICE, ENVY OR FEAR. HE KNOWS THAT JUSTICE, FREEDOM AND TRUTH SHALL TRIUMPH OVER ALL OBSTACLES IN THE END.

The Empress of Canada, from Shanghai, is due here on Friday at 9 a.m.

During a fight between two men at 32, Temple Street, one of the combatants received injuries to his head and had to be taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital for treatment.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed by all ports in the United States of America, including the Hawaiian Islands, against arrivals from Hongkong on account of cholera.

A married woman of 33, Cook Street attempted to commit suicide yesterday when she threw herself into the water off Hung Hom. She was seen by a seaman of the steam launch Man Ping and rescued.

A four-year-old Chinese boy was knocked down by a private motor car in Queen's Road West yesterday, causing injuries to the left side of the lad's body. He was taken to the Government Civil Hospital.

Slight injuries were received by 14 Mu, aged 18, when he was knocked down by a private motor car near the Causeway Bay tram terminus yesterday. He was taken to the French Hospital, where his injuries were treated.

A Chinese attempted to commit suicide early this morning by jumping into the harbour near the Yau Ma Tei Ferry Wharf, Hongkong. A seaman of the steam launch Kwong Lee, which was lying near the wharf, heard the splash and, on seeing the man, rescued him from a sampan.

Whilst a motor lorry was being driven along Murray Road near Butterfield and Swire's offices yesterday, one of the foks who was on the vehicle lost his balance and fell off. He was taken to the Police Station and later removed to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from serious injuries to his head. He succumbed early this morning.

There was no formal address at yesterday's meeting of the Rotary Club, but an interesting discussion took place regarding future programmes, when appeals were made to members to give them the benefit of their knowledge on various aspects of business. Mr. E. Cock created much amusement when he said that if the representatives of the Churches withdrew, he would be able to tell the meeting all about shipbuilding in one word.

TASK OF YOUTH

By "THIRTY"

WHEN once we have satisfied ourselves that we have, as far as is possible, taken all practical precautions to avert disaster, and to mitigate the effects if disaster should arise, we can turn our attention to the overhauling of the machine.

The precautions suggested in the last article are obviously not the only measures to be taken, and others will suggest themselves. There is, besides, the hope of something helpful emerging from Lausanne and Ottawa, even if the indications are not too favourable at the moment. But I think that most of the younger generation will agree that the only hope of permanent stability is, so to speak, to take down the machine of civilisation to the last nut for a thorough overhaul and examination.

Patching can only be a temporary palliative. There is clearly something too fundamentally wrong for us to expect recovery without a drastic revision of ideas as to the causes of the trouble.

It may be argued that one cannot take the machine of civilisation down to the last nut without bringing it to a standstill, but it is quite possible to examine it in sections to see where the errors in design lie, and still keep it running. But we must be prepared to get back to first principles and discard all our preconceived and traditional notions. We must take nothing for granted. No part of the design must escape ruthless and unbiased examination.

No one in his senses would suggest that there is any chance of the world as a whole revising its ideas. They are much too deep-rooted. But if leaders, instead of running round in frenzied circles, applying patches, would take time to examine our problems in the light of first principles, they might be able to create a more favourable atmosphere for the solution of those problems. At least there would be less danger of their adding to the mistakes they have already made.

Therefore, those of us who think about these things suggest that a cold and dispassionate examination of basic principles is not only an essential and a practical step, but probably the only one offering a chance of a successful and permanent solution of our troubles.

If we could be given a "trouble-finding chart" for our examination of the machine of civilisation, probably the first question we should find on it would be: "What is the machine for and why are you driving it?"

Those in charge of the machine would have no answer to this except: "We don't know and we are not meant to know." If they were asked why we "are not meant to know," they would probably reply that they had been told that by the Churches. But they would not be able to say where the Churches got that information.

We are handicapped, then, at the outset by ignorance of even the purpose of the machine which we are examining. But if we stick to first principles and known facts, it is possible that careful inspection of the component parts may throw some light on the purpose of the whole.

"I wish now whether or not he loves me and whether or not I love him."

Ignoring superficialities, let us turn to the fundamental features of civilised life, such as, for example, democratic government.

We find that most of the civilised world is run on the assumption that every individual above a certain age is equally qualified to have a voice in government. As an extension of this principle, we find that the only profession in life for which no training or qualifications of any sort are considered necessary, is the profession of government. So convinced are our statesmen of the value of this idea that they regard it as a duty of pressing urgency to grant self-government to the illiterate, the disgruntled, the aboriginal, and the half-baked in every possible corner of the globe. Democracy is so universally accepted as one of the brightest jewels in the crown of civilisation that it occurs to few to question its real value.

But at the risk of being thought heretics, let us resolutely examine this theory of Democracy in the light of first principles and known facts.

It is a fact from which we cannot escape that folk are born into the world with regrettably unequal dowries of physique, health, and intelligence. No Parliament has so far been able to do anything about this troublesome working of a law of nature. Upbringing and environment may influence development after birth, but they can never offset, except in minor degree, initial discrepancies.

Yet in most of our conceptions of government we turn a blind eye to these discrepancies and assume that one and all are equally qualified to dictate the destiny of the nation. Can it be that with every extension of the franchise we have been receding further and further from the laws of nature and that our systems of government are founded on a colossal misconception? If so, might this not explain at least some portion of the mess we have made of the world?

Further steps along the same road of inquiry lead us to the economic consequences of our conception of democracy, for many of our present troubles arise from certain widely-held beliefs concerning the duty of the State towards the individual. With the extension of the franchise, on the other hand, we have heard less and less of the duty of the individual to the State.

Let us get back to first principles on this point. The "State" had no say in my arrival in this world. It did not ask for me to be born. Ethically, or logically, therefore, what sort of claim can I make against the State? If I have any claim against anyone it must be against my parents.

On the other hand, the State can legitimately make certain claims on me, so long as I choose to enjoy the protection and privileges which it offers. But it should be noted that there is no compulsion on me to live in the land of my birth.

Being born, after all, is rather like being elected to a club. There is no compulsion to take up the election, but there are certain responsibilities to the club if one does.

No club could survive if the members demanded, as a right, privileges in excess of the club's resources, especially if the committee had to bribe members with the club's funds to secure election. Yet that is the way in which the affairs of the great club which we call the State have been conducted in recent times under modern misconceptions of the rights of individual members. And, oddly enough, it is those members who talk most about "liberty" and "freedom" who are most anxious to enforce compulsory claims against their fellow-members.

Our suggested examination of the machine has not proceeded very far, but we have already encountered distinct indications of unsound design and faulty execution.

It is clear, too, that if our examination is correct, the repairs are going to take a long time and must entail considerable discomfort mental and physical, to the repairers. It is unlikely that our elders will take on the work, even if they agree with our diagnosis of the damage, so our heritage is indeed a hectic one.

In a final article to-morrow "Thirty" sums up his conclusions.

As advertised, a special vaudeville show, featuring Long Tack Sam and his daughters, is being given at Queen's Theatre on Saturday night. The tickets, at $10, $5 and $3, are selling well, and patrons are reminded that booking begins to-day. The tickets are vouchers which must be exchanged at the theatre for seat-tickets. The show is in aid of the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society.

YOUNG SNATCHER CAUGHT

SOLDIERS JOIN IN CHASE

Miss M. Smith, of 3D Block, Military Quarters, Kennedy Road, was the victim of a snatching incident in Battery Path, near Garden Road, last night, when a young Chinese attempted to relieve her of her handbag. The alarm was raised and the culprit chased by three soldiers and an Indian constable, his arrest being effected after he had taken shelter under the Balliffs Hut between the Public Works Department and the Colonial Secretary's Office.

In relating the incident to Mr. Wynne-Jones, before whom the arrested youth was charged with attempted larceny, Miss Smith said she was walking towards Garden Road in company with her mother shortly after 9 o'clock last night, when she felt a tug at her handbag. She instantly turned around and saw a youth run away. He was wearing white clothing and had long hair. Both she and her mother screamed and an Indian constable and three soldiers who were nearby took up the chase, the Indian blowing his police whistle.

The fugitive ran up the steps leading to the Colonial Secretary's Office with the party of pursuers not far behind. When Miss Smith arrived at the top she saw the soldiers and the Indian, who had been joined by a second Indian constable, surrounding the Balliffs Hut. One of the soldiers remarked that the man was underneath the hut. A constable then went underneath and brought the defendant out.

In denying the allegation of theft, the defendant said he had recently arrived in the Colony from Canton and was not aware of the habits of local residents. When he heard the police whistle being blown, he instantly ran away and hid himself under the hut.

Evidence corroborative of that of Miss Smith was given by Mrs. Smith and the Indian constable who effected the man's arrest, after which his Worship registered a conviction and ordered the defendant to receive twelve strokes of the cane, he being only 16 years of age.

A REPLY TO DR. POPE.

declares that Dr. Pope said:

THE DISPUTED STATEMENTS.

"The sixteen cases reported on Tuesday were all from the Tung Wah Hospital. They were discovered by the Superintendent of the Kennedy Town district who had them immediately removed to the Kennedy Town Hospital. There is no doubt that those cases should have been notified, and the failure to do so can only be laid down to omission or ignorance on the part of those responsible. Any person, layman or practitioner, is compelled to notify cholera, and under the circumstances the people responsible for not notifying the authorities would be liable. This is not, however, a matter for my department. I don't think any further steps will be taken, in view of the fact that the cases were discovered."

BOARD MEETING.

On Monday, July 4, the South China Morning Post, which reprinted the Telegraph interview, received a letter from Dr. S. W. Phoon, of the Tung Wah Hospital, challenging Dr. Pope's statements.

On July 5, a meeting of the Sanitary Board was held and Dr. Pope spoke on the question of the cholera menace and introduced two emergency motions. But he did not take the opportunity to deny the accuracy of the interview which was the subject of Dr. Phoon's complaint.

On July 7, a reporter was sent to interview Dr. Pope on the cholera situation and again, significantly, the M.O.H. made no attempt to correct, if he thought corrections were necessary, the statements in the previous interview.

THE FIRST DENIAL.

Although, as a Government servant, the M.O.H. might not be permitted to write to the newspapers, following the publication of Dr. Phoon's letter, there was still nothing to prevent him, if he had reason to believe that he had been misreported, especially in a manner casting reflections upon an institution such as the Tung Wah Hospital, from asking to see the reporter again. But Dr. Pope, with several opportunities, offered made no denial or correction until yesterday, when challenged to justify his statements by Mr. M. K. Lo.

CHOLERA CASES

MEDICAL OFFICER DENIES STATEMENTS

At the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday, Mr. M. K. Lo asked, pursuant to notice:

Has the attention of the Head of the Sanitary Department been drawn to the leading article on the cholera epidemic which appeared in the South China Morning Post of Thursday, June 30, the report of an alleged interview with the Medical Officer of Health which appeared in the same paper on Friday, July 1, and to the letter of explanation by Dr. S. W. Phoon, Medical Superintendent of the Tung Wah Hospital, which appeared in the same paper of July 4.

(1) Q. In view of the impression created by the said newspaper report and comments, which were expressly stated to have been based upon an interview with the Medical Officer of Health, such impression being—(a) That the medical staff of the Tung Wah had failed to make the necessary notifications to the Medical Authorities after the cases had been diagnosed as Cholera, and, (b) that the sixteen cases reported on Tuesday the 28th June, were discovered by some outside person connected with the Medical Department, but not connected with the Tung Wah Hospital staff—

Does the Medical Officer of Health agree that such impression is entirely contrary to the facts of the case?

Dr. Pope replied:—The interview is incorrectly reported and gives an erroneous impression of the facts of the case.

(2) Q. Is it not the fact that the first cases of Cholera notified to the Medical Officer of Health were: one case notified on Saturday 18th June, and another case on Monday 20th June, both notifications being by the Tung Wah Hospital?

A.—Yes.

(3) Q. Is it not a fact that the Tung Wah was the first institution to spot and to report to the Medical Authorities the existence of Cholera in the Colony?

A. Answer is therefore yes.

(4) Q. To whom did the Medical Officer of Health intend to refer by the expression "Superintendent of the Kennedy Town District?" Is it not the fact that Dr. S. W. Phoon, the Medical Superintendent of the Tung Wah Hospital, is in connexion with the present epidemic the Superintendent of the Tung Wah Infectious Diseases Hospital in Kennedy Town?

A. So far as my memory serves me I stated that sixteen cases were discovered in the Tung Wah Hospital by the Superintendent.

As to the latter portion of the question, I believe the statement to be correct.

(5) Q. It is not a fact that the sixteen cases referred to by the Medical Officer of Health were cases which had been sent to the Kennedy Town Infectious Hospital by the Tung Wah Authorities for observation, and that the reports made to the Medical Officer of Health were made by Dr. E. Q. Lim who is working under Dr. Phoon as Superintendent of the Kennedy Town Infectious Hospital?

A.—Yes.

(6) Q. Is it not a fact that there has been absolutely no failure to notify cases on the part of the Tung Wah Hospital?

A.—I do not know. I have, however, no reason to doubt that the Hospital Authorities took all reasonable precautions against such a contingency.

(7) Q. Will the Medical Officer of Health be good enough to say whether or not the following statements, which were attributed to him as having been made by him in the course of a newspaper interview, and on which the newspaper comments above mentioned were expressly stated to have been based—were in fact made by him?

"The sixteen cases reported on Tuesday were all from the Tung Wah Hospital. They were discovered by the Superintendent of the Kennedy Town district who had them immediately removed to the Kennedy Town Hospital. There is no doubt that those cases should have been notified, and the failure to do so can only be laid down to omission or ignorance on the part of those responsible. Any person, layman or practitioner, is compelled to notify cholera, and under the circumstances the people responsible for not notifying the authorities would be liable. This is not, however, a matter for my department. I don't think any further steps will be taken, in view of the fact that the cases were discovered."

A. No, only the statement that sixteen cases were found in the Tung Wah Hospital is correct.

(8) If the answer to question 7 is in the affirmative, does the Medical Officer of Health now agree that the statements quoted above, which reflect on the Tung Wah Hospital Authorities, are absolutely unjustified by the facts of the case?

(9) If the answer to question 7 is in the affirmative, will the Medical Officer of Health be kind

CITY STABBING INCIDENT

MORE THAN $22,000 STOLEN

Attacked by three men who threw pepper in his face, stabbed him in the stomach with a penknife and stole over $22,000 from him, a Chinese now lies in the Government Civil Hospital in a critical condition, the victim of one of the most daring daylight outrages in the recent history of local crime.

The affair took place yesterday on the third floor of Prince's Building, in the heart of the city in the middle of the afternoon, and not only did the three men make a successful get-away, but it appears that they were not even seen by anybody.

The victim was discovered bleeding profusely from his wound and half blinded by the pepper, and was immediately rushed off to the hospital where it was found that his condition was so critical as to indicate an operation.

Because of the victim's great weakness, the police yesterday experienced much difficulty in discovering the facts leading up to the outrage, or of making a reconstruction of the crime.

$27,000 Driven From Bank.

Last evening, however, it was ascertained that the wounded man, To Shui-po, had received $27,680 from the P. and O. Bank about 3 o'clock, and that he went to the Canton Bank Building to obtain Hongkong Tramway Company and Hongkong Telephone Company share scripts to the value of $9,507.52, paying away that amount. This business was transacted about 4 o'clock and from there he went to Prince's Building, arriving about 4.15 p.m.

Blinded And Stabbed.

He visited the offices of Mr. Cheng Chui-sun on the third floor and then went to the lavatory. Upon emerging he was attacked by three men, who threw pepper in his face, and then stabbed him in the stomach with a penknife.

At the time To was carrying $12,282 with him in currency notes, as well as the three share scripts, and when he was discovered, it was found that the money and the scripts were missing.

The money was made up in 5500 notes of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and the Chartered Bank of India, while the share scripts included 200 Telephone shares in the name of To Shui-po, No. 4693, the shares numbering from 241581 to 241780, together with 500 Tramway shares, script No. 10074, which had been taken out in the name of Chan Wah-shi.

So far as the police have been able to ascertain, the robbers were seen by nobody and the victim was, last night, unable to give any description of them. The crime was carried out in a passage at the rear of the building, and from the thoroughness with which the robbery was effected, it would appear that the three men were well informed both as to the movements of their victim and as to the amount of money he had with him.

Last night the Police circulated a statement warning all money changers to maintain a strict vigilance for any attempt to change currency bills of large denominations or share scripts.

A reward of $500 has been offered for the apprehension and conviction of anybody in connexion with the crime.

LEAGUE TENNIS

"YOUNG MEN" EASILY BEAT H. K. C. C.

Visiting the Hongkong Cricket Club yesterday, the Y.M.C.A. annexed "C" Division points winning by 64 sets to 24. E. R. and T. J. Price were in form winning all three sets, and Gray and Punccheon added a further 24 sets.

Scores:

Wright and Horridge (H.K.C.C.) beat Ferguson and Wilson 6-3; lost to Price and Price 3-6; lost to Gray and Punccheon 5-7.

Harris Walker and Scull (H.K.C.C.) beat Ferguson and Wilson 6-3; lost to Price and Price 1-6; lost to Gray and Punccheon 2-6.

Hyde and Gable (H.K.C.C.) lost to Ferguson and Wilson 0-6; lost to Price and Price 1-6; drew with Gray and Punccheon 6-6.

enough to elucidate his somewhat cryptic observation "This is not, however, a matter for my department?"

A.—Questions 8 and 9 do not therefore arise.

JADE RING STOLEN FROM SHOP

Several European residents figure in a series of thefts and losses reported to the police authorities yesterday.

From Miss J. E. Cousens, of the Jade Tree, Ltd., the Arcade, Gloucester Building, comes the report of the loss of a jade ring, which was found to be missing after would-be customers had visited the shop. In a report to the police, Miss Cousens states that three Chinese men entered the shop at 2 p.m. yesterday and examined some jade rings, but made no purchase. After they had left, about fifteen minutes later, it was discovered that a gold ring set with a jade stone was missing. The value of the ring is given as $100.

Mr. G. H. Paine, of 5, Lock Road, third floor, has notified the police that some time on Monday last someone stole from his residence money and a cigarette case to the total value of $55.

Whilst a motor car belonging to Mr. D. S. Edwards was parked outside Claremont Hotel, in Austin Road, during the fifth hour yesterday, someone stole the radiator cap, valued at $5.

Some time after 9 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. S. Jervis, accountant of the Hongkong Electric Company, who was walking from 12, Bonham Road to the Military Quarters in Kennedy Road, dropped a pocket book from his jacket pocket. The book contained $15 and some papers.

A wallet belonging to Capt. E. Godinez, of 3, Liberty Avenue, Homotun, was lost by the owner some time between 7 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. last night. It was dropped during the journey from the Yau-mai Ferry Wharf, Hongkong, to Capt. Godinez's residence. It was stated to have contained money, a passport and important private papers, the loss being placed at $185.

THE FU AND WEST RIVERS

STILL MUCH ABOVE NORMAL

Wuchow, July 18. Although the water has dropped over 20 feet, the Fu and West Rivers are still much above normal. None of the streets are flooded and business has been resumed. The Commercial Press was one of the last concerns to reopen, but at present they are carrying on business as usual.

Many of the stores have not stored away their sampans as there still is a possibility of the rivers rising again.—Our Own Correspondent.

LATEST CRICKET RESULTS

London, July 19.

Hampshire, Notts and Warwick were the only teams to gain full quota of points from their matches in the county cricket programme, the remainder being decided on first inning.

Bowlers had matters pretty
well their own way, several outstanding feats being accomplished, but Bates of Warwick succeeded in conquering the attack to score 211 and Sandham hit the Lancashire trundlers to all parts of the field.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Surrey (144-8 dec. & 119-0 dec.)
beat Lancashire (280 & 121-1)
on 1st innings at the Oval.
Hampshire (268 & 120) beat Worcester (139 & 163) by 81 runs
at Dudley.
Northants (315 & 248-5 dec.) beat Gloucester (236 & 212-5) on 1st innings at Swansed.
Notts (237 & 101-1) beat Middlesex
221 & 115) by nine wickets at Nottingham.
Leicester (274 & 32-1) beat Essex (246 & 265-8 dec.) on 1st innings at Leicester.
Somerset (246 & 62-2) beat Derbyshire (148 & 324-9 dec.) on 1st
innings at Derby.
Warwick (178 & 135-6) beat Gloucester (385 & 227) by four wickets at Gloucester.

FRIENDLY MATCH.

Yorkshire (161-8 dec. & 68-1) beat
All-India (160 & 66) by six wickets at Harrogate.

MACAULEY 8 FOR 21

BATES OF WARWICK
SCORES 211

LANCS BOWLING COLLARED

Bates the Warwickshire bats-
men, enjoyed the chief distinction
among the run-getters by scoring a double century against Gloucester,
who were soundly beaten by four wickets. His 211 were made out of a total of 478, and this huge score
was made in reply to Gloucester's useful aggregate of 385 for the first innings. Walter Hammond showed a glimpse of his best-form in contributing 92, but Warwick displayed an all-round superiority
which made them deserved winners.
Surrey fairly flayed the Lancashire attack, scoring 444 for 8
declared in their first venture.
(Sandham 154 not out) and rattling up 119 for no wickets at the second time of asking, when again
the declaration was made. Lancashire were fortunate to escape an outright defeat.

BOLD DECLARATION.

Hampshire's victory over Worcester, being one of the three matches which reached an outright decision, was largely the work of Brook, who bowled magnificently
to take, during the match, 10
wickets for 89 runs.

Yorkshire bowlers enjoyed themselves against the Indians, Macauley capturing 8 wickets for 21 runs and Verity adding further to his large stock of victims by securing 5 for 65. Yorkshire won with ease by six wickets. Interest in the match was livened by the declaration made by the Yorkshire
captain who brought their first innings to a close when only one run ahead of the visitors. Finally,
however, the "Tykes" were set by 68 to win.—Reuter.

FLOGS BOWLING

SANDHAM, of Surrey, who flogged the Lancashire bowlers
to carry his bat for a masterly innings of 145, scored out of a total of 444 for 8 declared.

Chua Choon-leong, who with Yong Loon-Choon captured the Singapore Open Doubles tennis championship a few weeks ago,
and who also made a successful
tour of Sumatra and Malay States with Denis Hazell last year, is at present in Hongkong on route on a business trip to Shanghai.

Chua is one of the leading Chinese tennis players in the Malay peninsula, having won the Singapore and Malayan doubles championships on several occasions.
He has also visited Manila and defeated G. Aragon in an exhibition match.

Last year he played in a doubles encounter against E. D. Andrews,
the Davis Cup player, and won.
During his brief stay in Hongkong, Chua, who is paying his first visit to the Colony, is having one or two knock-outs with local leading players.

This afternoon he will team
with Denis Hazell against Tsui
Wai-pui and A. L. Sullivan on the Crickit Club ground; to-morrow
they will oppose E. C. Fincher
and Reid (the Shanghai Football and Swimming Interporter) at the K. C. C., and on Friday will probably meet the Rumjahn cousins at the I. R. C.

The Pounds, Shillings and Pence of Sport

IMMENSE INCOMES BEING MADE BY AMERICAN SPORTSMEN

AMERICA may be wallowing in
the slough of financial depression, but her coffers are not so empty that she cannot afford to heap dollars upon her sporting champions. Mr. Gene Sarazen, the winner of the British Open Golf Championship, has declared publicly that a fortune awaits him in the United States. He estimates that his victory means £40,000 to him and probably a great deal more.

His case is no exception. Since the war salaries of fantastic proportions have been paid to champions in every branch of sport,
from ping-pong to Atlantic flying.
If you want to be a successful
actor, film star, public speaker or journalist in America you do not enter these professions at the bottom and climb the long ladder;
you merely win some outstanding sporting event and, all in the twinkling of an eye, you can act,
you can make speeches, you can write articles.

Whilst American sportsmen are on the flood-tide of success they live in a more lavish way than Nero ever dreamed of. Their hotel
bill usually costs them £100 a week. Mr. Walter Hagen, another champion golfer, has fifty suits of plus fours. Mr. Sarazen, however, has hopes of exceeding this number. Indeed, the seconds of a champion boxer and the caddies of a champion golfer earn salaries in excess of those of the members of the Cabinet of the British Government.

"BABE" RUTH'S £20,000 A YEAR.

Naturally the spectacle of these sportsmen basking in such fabulous wealth is bound to give rise
to the question of their motives.
Are we to believe that this craze
for sport in the United States is the natural outlet of love of gaming or love of dollars?

Our British sportsman, receiving his modest pay envelope, must occasionally think that being born
on this side of the Atlantic Ocean
is not without its financial disadvantages. Alec James, recog-

Gene Sarazen.

as good in their particular line
as American stars. "Dixie" Dean is as good a footballer as Ruth is a baseball player; Larwood can bowl as well as Jones can drive.
Yet there is this amazing disparity in their salaries.

Why? Chiefly, I think, because Britain still plays her games out of sheer love of sport. Is there any American, patriotic or otherwise, who can say the same thing about his country? The Golden Calf does not exist in British sport. It is rarely absent from the American playing field. The coach of the football team of one of America's most important universities earns more each week
than the combined weekly salaries
of the players of England's foremost football team.

THE BRITISH WAY.

But Britain has no truck with astronomical figures. Her star athletes receive salaries which a third-rate creak in America would snarl at. The sportsmen themselves are not at all enthusiastic about big money. Offers from American and French football
managers at the close of last football season, which were three times as attractive as terms in Britain, were turned down by practically every important footballer
in the country.

The difference between American and British sport is perhaps mainly one of temperament. The British temperament does not associate sport with money. When it thinks of tennis, cricket, football, or any of a hundred and one other sports, it thinks in terms of green fields, cheering crowds, the sweetness of victory, or the bitterness of defeat. The sign of the almighty dollar or pound does not loom over British sport.

Of late there have been tentative feelers put out to sound British sport on the financial question. The financiers behind the operations are not at all sanguine about changing sport into a business in Britain. After all, they say, those British, they were always mad!

write, horsed refuse vehicles are employed, in which the contents are most inadequately protected, so that the vehicles shed rubbish and dust, particularly when there is a slight breeze. There can be no excuse for the employment of such antiquated means. Power-propelled appliances have shown themselves to be ideal for this class of work, whether they be driven by steam, petrol or electric power, and improvements in their design are constantly being made, whilst their cost is by no means excessive.

"As an example of two types brought out recently, there is one in which an hydraulic ram serves to compress the refuse into the smallest possible space, thus permitting a larger amount to be loaded, whilst the other has a hopper which during the running of the vehicle, is emptied by a conveyor operated from an axle, the refuse being lifted into a high container. Apart from such specialized machines, considerable progress is being made in the development of types in which the loading can be effected without exposing the contents of bins, and there are other arrangements in which the bins themselves are carried between the living areas and the destructors."

Modern Methods.

In that issue there is an article, with illustrations, entitled "Modern Means for Public Cleansing," being advance particulars of the exhibition and demonstration in connexion with that week's Cleansing Conference in Manchester. The types of vehicles are various: some of them are driven by electricity with hydraulic tipping rams; some are equipped with a ram capable of moving along the length of the compartments, and of compressing into as small a compass as possible the bulkier and compressible refuse; but all proceed on the principle that the vehicle should be dust proof, the opinion being expressed elsewhere in the same issue that refuse collectors with open bodies are "inevitably doomed." The paper has also an article on "Modern Tendencies in Refuse Collectors," and there can be no question that open lorries are an anachronism. With Mr. Bellamy's consent I propose to leave this journal with the H.S.D., so that any of my colleagues who may be interested can have a look at it. I suggest that the H.S.D. should get into touch with the Manchester authorities and ascertain from them the result of the conference. In the meantime I come to deal with the existing lorries which are in use.

Modern Exhibited.

The H.S.D., in answer to me, stated "As at present advised I think it is better to continue searching for the ideal unit of transport on the assumption that it will not be sub-divided. Sub-division would tend to cause delay in loading and off-loading." I have noticed that many of the modern dustless vehicles are not sub-divided, and I am not pressing for any sub-division as long as the lorry can be made dust proof.

Mr. E. Cock, who always takes such a keen interest in public affairs, was good enough to discuss this matter with me, and was kind enough to have constructed for me, for demonstrating to this Board, a small model of a lorry of the type in use: adapted to have lids put on so as to make it dust proof. The model is now on the table, and I think we all must agree that, with very little expenditure of money, the existing lorries can be made dust proof, and I do press that something on the lines suggested by the model should be put in hand at once.

With these few words I move the Motion standing in my name.

Mr. Sayer's Reply.

Mr. G. R. Sayer, Head of the Sanitary Department, said that if the motion had been for a selected committee of the Board to investigate the Board's existing arrangement regarding the type and time of the refuse lorries used in Hongkong, he would have welcomed the motion, since there were members on the Board who were well able to speak on the technical side of the whole thing. Mr. Lo's motion, however, was nothing of the sort. It merely invited members of the Board to disapprove of the existing type of lorry and the times at which they were in use. Mr. Lo's motion made no mention of the type of lorry desired, or of the time which would be most welcome. Of course the speech had some concrete proposals, but Mr. Sayer said he wanted to impress on members that they would be called upon to vote on the motion and not on Mr. Lo's speech, and on that ground he invited the Board to reject the motion.

His second point, said Mr. Sayer, was that Mr. Lo had given no indication of the times at which he wanted the lorries to collect refuse. Speaking of the second clause in Mr. Lo's motion, Mr. Sayer said that anyone reading that might infer that the lorries were in the habit of throwing away refuse which they were supposed to collect.

"That motion—at least that clause in the motion—is an absolute libel on our service," said Mr. Sayer, who added that the clause was used by Mr. Lo as a description of a most useful service which was being undertaken by the Sanitary Department. It was a most unfair description. Mr. Sayer asked, why, if the service was so inefficient, had there been such a marked absence of bubonic plague during the past nine years?

Chinese Area.

Mr. Sayer said that his third reason for asking the Board to reject the motion was for something more modern. Coming as it did from the Chinese community, they were entitled to assume that it concerned that particular part of the town almost exclusively used by the Chinese community. He said that the houses in that district were mainly nineteenth century houses, and the streets were crowded with stalls and booths and itinerant hawkers and pedlars, medicine sellers and petition writers. The houses and the streets were purely medievalism, and he suggested that it would be out of place to put a really modern lorry in this city in view of the preponderance of the 19th. century houses. Between Pedder Street and Eastern Street, of a total of about 4,500 houses, about 3,900 were erected before 1903.

When the Board reflected that these houses harboured tuberculosis and that about 50 people died of this disease every week, the suggestion that they should have a more modern lorry was something in the nature of a grim joke. Mr. Sayer went on to say that he made no attack on the Chinese community. He was in favour of modernism, but he asked the Board to preserve a sense of proportion and reminded them that they had to face the practical position. The lorries now in use had to cope with narrow, slippery and crowded thoroughfares and so far they have done very well, as the absence of serious accidents would show. The lorries in use came from established British firms.

Dr. Basto Supports Motion.

Dr. Castro Basto, speaking on the motion, said:

Frankly speaking, I cannot see how it is that Mr. Lo's motion is not acceptable. I will take the motion part by part and comment on it. With regard to the first clause I find it to be a reasonable suggestion. Progress is being Messrs. Waibel & Co. ("DEFAC") offer six "AGFA" box cameras to be competed for by school-children. These will be awarded to best six pictures in this class.

Bathing Scenes, Picnic Illustrations, Local Beauty Spots, Typical Chinese Studies, etc. All photographs must be of subjects taken in the Colony.

Photographs may be submitted forthwith, and it is intended to reproduce selected pictures in the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement as from the first Saturday in July. The Competition will close on August 31st, 1932.

The following rules will govern the Competition:—

- 1.—The Competition is confined exclusively to amateur photographers.
- 2.—The prizes will be awarded to the competitors sending in what are adjudged to be the best photographs submitted up to August 31st, 1932. In the event of two or more photographs being considered of equal merit, any or all of the prizes will be divided accordingly. The decision of the Judges shall be final.
- 3.—The right to publish any or all of the entries in the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement is reserved.
- 4.—Photographs which have been already entered in local competitions will be ineligible.
- 5.—No photographs will be returned.
- 6.—Photographs, preferably in black and white, must be addressed to the Editor and must bear on back the name and address of competitor.
- 7.—No correspondence will be entered into in connexion with the Competition.
- 8.—The six "Agfa" cameras donated by Messrs. Waibel & Co. ("Defac") may only be competed for by local school-children. Each entry in this section must bear the name of the competitor together with that of his or her school.

made every day, and there are now vehicles being turned out in England. Mr. Lo's suggestion is a very good one, and worthy of consideration, at least even a trial.
If it happens that it is not workable after the trial, then we may go back to the old vehicle.

With regard to the second clause,
I have seen myself that when these lorries are overfull, and when they get a move on, a certain amount of garbage falls off. But there is one thing that I am in disagreement with the Chairman, and that is that while there are certain states of affairs in this Colony, it is no reason why we should not advance in other directions. We must make a start somewhere. Just because there is tuberculosis and overcrowding and so forth, it does not mean we should not consider this question of garbage removal.

With regard to the work of the Sanitary authorities in this Colony,
I must say that they have done very well. It is no slight to the Sanitary Department that one puts forward such a suggestion.
Great credit is due to the Sanitary Department, but this does not mean that the authorities should sit down and be satisfied with what has been done.

Mr. Lo Replies to Chairman.

Replying to the Chairman's remarks Mr. Lo said:

Your first point was that if my motion had been worded differently you would have agreed to it. You are the H. S. D.; I put a series of questions to you, and I should have thought that if you had thought the committee would have helped you, that this proposition would have come from you. You could have moved for a committee if you wanted any advice. In view of the answers I got from you, I felt, and I feel, that the only way of getting a move-on is to move the motion in the present way. I am very anxious to dispel at once that there is any intention on my part of making any attacks on the service of the Sanitary Department in running this refuse collection.

Mr. Sayer.—I did not say that.

Mr. Lo.—Now you say that you did not suggest it, but I certainly gathered it was in your mind, and I want to give this assurance that it was not intended. I do not want to waste the Board's time by replying at too great a length, but I want to thank Dr. Basto who spoke for my motion. What is the nature of the motion? My motion really is that in the opinion of this Board the existing arrangements for the removal of refuse are unsatisfactory from the point of view of public health and hygiene, and that in order to make such arrangements more satisfactory from the viewpoint stated, this Board respectfully recommends to the proper authorities that up-to-date, specially constructed and equipped vehicles be obtained for refuse removal when the time comes for new vehicles to be ordered in place of the existing ones, and that in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport, and that the existing hours of collection be reviewed and revised.

Are They Satisfactory?

Are you satisfied that these arrangements are considered to be satisfactory? Are you prepared to stand up and say they are so satisfactory that I don't want them im-

LORD LYTTON ILL

TO GO TO HOSPITAL IN PEKING

Tsingtao, July 19.

The Chichibu Maru arrived here at 11.30 a.m. and the Commission, except Lord Lytton and Lord Astor landed at 1.15. They were welcomed by Dr. Wellington Koo and prominent residents.

Lord Lytton was brought ashore in a stretcher by Lord Astor this afternoon and taken by ambulance to the British consulate.

All left for Tsinanfu this evening, where Lord Lytton, aboard Chang Hsueh-liang's aeroplane will go to Peking on Wednesday morning and then to the Peking University Medical College hospital, suffering from internal chill and low fever.—Reuter.

Widespread Anxiety.

Shanghai, July 19.

The news of Lord Lytton's illness has caused much anxiety in London, Shanghai, Nanking, Peking and Tokyo, and it is pointed out that the rigours of the climate, the constant travelling and the arduous nature of his task are sufficient to try the health of anyone, especially a man of Lord Lytton's age. He will be 56 on August 9.

Arrangements for the use of Chang Hsueh-liang's air liner to convey Lord Lytton to Peking from Tsinanfu were made by wireless from the Chichibu Maru.

Lord Lytton had been unwell for some time, but so far it was not thought necessary for him to enter hospital.

Much sympathy is being expressed in Chinese circles for Lord Lytton, and everyone is figuratively following his special train, as it steams onward to Tsinanfu.—
Reuter's Special.

proved? I submit anyone who has to walk through these streets, as I have to, very frequently, in the locality which gives rise to these representations, would have no hesitation in saying what experience they get by walking or driving behind the lorry.

The particular locality in which you live may not render it necessary for you to go to places in respect of which this representation arises. Your answer to me that in the Peak refuse is carried away at night may be one explanation why you do not experience that nauseating feeling which most of us experience.

I am glad Dr. Basto has done me the honour of making my motion plain, where perhaps, my bad
English would not have done so.
You Sir, seem to be very annoyed with sub-clause 2 of my motion, reading that in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport. You think it is a great indictment and a great insult. But I do say that lorries do shed refuse when they are fully loaded.

I enjoy very much your wonderful and vivid description of in-sanitary Chinese houses. I think that if you are not occupying the place you are now occupying the Chairman would have held you out of order. I don't see what that has to do with the motion now before you. I cannot help saying I resent some of your remarks in so far as you suggest that I as a representative of the Chinese, and therefore representing such an unhygienic community as the Chinese should have the cheek, and you call it a grim joke, that I their representative should come before you and call for improvement.

That is what I infer from your remarks. That is what you intend to say, I presume. I venture to say that no H. S. D. could have made a greater blunder or a greater and more fundamental mistake in what I call constitutional law in this Colony. We the Chinese representatives are not responsible for the condition of the slums. If you accept that fact, and that constitutionally I am here nominated to represent Chinese interests, it is part of my duty to this Board, and therefore to the Colony to bring these facts before you. I don't see where the grim joke comes in at all.

No Joke Intended.

Commenting that this attitude might account for so many motions being left to the limbo of forgotten things, Mr. Lo continued:

I do not intend my remarks to be a grim joke. No insult of any kind was intended by me on the Sanitary Service. I am not sure, Sir, whether the complacency with which some officials regard the progress of this Colony sometimes affects the efficiency of the administration. In dealing with a motion of this kind you congratulate the Board, and the Board must congratulate itself that the Colony has not had bubonic plague for nine years. You, therefore, say that all of that efficiency is attributable to the Sanitary Board.
May I remind you of one thing:
that plague has not visited Hongkong for nine years, but it has also not visited Macao or Canton and neighbouring ports for a similar period, and therefore I do not think that the fact that you have had no plague for nine years should debar us from assuming that something in the Sanitary Department is capable of improvement.

As I have something concrete now to indicate to you, I propose to press my motion without altering its form. I therefore ask my friends to vote for me.

The motion was put to the vote,
and was carried.

KWANGSI BANK NOTES

NEW ISSUE SOON TO APPEAR

Wuchow, July 18.
It is anticipated that before many days are past the new Kwangsi bank notes will appear in the banking establishments and business houses of Wuchow.

The new notes are to take the place of the older series which were backed by the mining resources of Kwangsi Province.
The older series is being recalled at par, it is said by those in the know.

The exchange rate of Hongkong currency in buying Kwangsi and Kwangtung silver specie remains around 143, with the rate rising and falling a fraction of a point according to demand. Kwangsi and Kwangtung silver are used interchangeably in the stores.—Our Own Correspondent.

RAILWAY CHIEF RESIGNS

RESENTMENT OVER CRITICISMS

Ottawa, July 19.
Consequent on criticisms of the management of the Canadian National Railways, Sir Henry Thorne-ton has resigned his post as President of the concern and Chairman of the Board of Directors, which he has held since 1922.

Sir Henry has had a distinguished career in railway administration both in Canada and the United States.—Reuter.

DOLLAR SLIGHTLY DOWN

THE LOCAL MARKET LIFELESS

The Hongkong dollar has declined 1/8th to-day to 1s. 3 1/8d.
The local market is lifeless.

In London, silver is down 1/8th, the fall being chiefly due to lack of support, with American small shares. After the official fixing, the market ruled quiet with no special feature.

New York reports silver down
1/8th on a dull market.

Dominion Affairs.

EXAMPLE TO WORLD

HOPES FOR OTTAWA CONFERENCE

WELCOMED

London, July 19.

The British delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference reached Ottawa to-day and received an enthusiastic reception from a huge crowd.

They were officially welcomed by the Canadian Premier Mr. R. B.
Bennett, and many other Canadian Ministers, and were later received by the Governor-General, Lord Bessborough.

Mr. Baldwin, chief British delegate, in the course of a statement at the conclusion of his journey, referred to the useful conference which took place during the passage from England with industrial advisers and fellow-delegates from other parts of the Empire who also travelled by the Empress of Britain. He said the progress made was a good augury of the helpful co-operation which

KAYE DON FEAT
COMMENT

London, July 19.

Kaye Don's achievement in recapturing the water speed record for Britain, which now again holds the world records in air, on land and sea, has revived the discussion as to the practical utility of these high speeds.

The general impression, judging from the newspapers, is that their technical value is very considerable, and that they serve also as demonstrations of the quality of British material and personnel.

The Daily Mail considers they can have been attained "only as the outcome of the finest engineering science and constructive experience".

The Morning Post says: "There seems no limit to the ingenuity, perseverance and ambition of the blue-print men in Britain's experimental workshops."

The Manchester Guardian thinks "the gain to marine architecture and engineering from these attempts to pack the largest power into the smallest space is unquestioned."

The News-Chronicle points out that in 1920 the record speed for motor boats was 71 miles hour. In 12 years, it has risen to nearly 120, and in the last four it has risen by 35 miles per hour. The News-Chronicle concludes "It is not altogether without significance that it should be British engineers who built Miss England III and the engines which have captured so many other world records."—British Wireless.

he anticipates will mark the Conference proceedings.

DOUBLE OPPORTUNITY.

"We recognise a double opportunity," he said. "The delegates can reach agreements increasing trade between different parts of the Empire, thus promoting the greater well-being of every unit.
But also we believe the methods we adopt will set an example to the whole world in breaking down obstacles to commerce and in aiding the revival of industry and trade, thus bringing the peoples safely through the tragic depression of recent times."—British Wireless.

LOCAL SOCCER FRICTION: LETTER TO H.K.F.A.

AN EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS

Shanghai, July 20.
An amazing wireless message picked up in Shanghai yesterday affords a sensational development in the case against the two alleged foreign Communists, Mr. and Mrs. Noulens.

The message consisted of an offer by the "Provisional Government of the Soviet Republic of China" to release all missionaries held as prisoners by the various Soviet districts in China in exchange for the release by the Nanking Government of Mr. and Mrs. Noulens.

The offer was embodied in a remarkable manifesto, which appears to have been sent over the air from the "Red Capital," Peking, in Kiangsi.

NANKING "WHITE TERROR"

The Government of the Soviet Republic of China, which recently sent a message of encouragement to Filipino Communists, it will be recalled, declares its willingness to defend the Noulens couple, whom it describes as friends of the Chinese Revolution and expresses its determined opposition to the "White Terror" of the Nanking Government.

It charges the Nanking Government with adopting a policy of capitulation before Imperialist pressure and requests the "International Committee for the Rescue of the Noulens" to enter into negotiations with the Nanking Government with a view to effecting an exchange of the Nanking prisoners for captured missionaries.—Reuter.

HARBIN PONTOON COLLAPSE

HUNDREDS THROWN INTO RIVER

Harbin, July 20.
An overcrowded and tottering pontoon at the Yacht Club beach, with a hundred trippers of all ages standing about waiting for a ferry, collapsed yesterday evening, throwing everyone into the river.

Terrible scenes were witnessed, but as far as can be ascertained no lives were lost, though artificial respiration had to be applied in numerous cases.

Dozens of rescuer-sportsmen and life-savers dived for hours and dragged from the river numerous women, clasping their children.—Reuter.

TEN KILLED IN SNOWSTORM CRASH

Valparaiso, July 19.
A terrible air disaster occurred near the Chilean capital to-day.

The Pan-American-Grace airliner, San Jose, a huge passenger-carrying plane, flying from Santiago de Chile to Buenos Aires to-day, was wrecked in a snowstorm forty miles to the north-east of Santiago.

The air-liner was carrying ten persons at the time of the crash and all were killed.—Reuter.

The Manila Observatory, reporting at 9.30 a.m. to-day, says the typhoon is crossing Northern Luzon, moving W. or W.N.W.

The Earl of Lytton.

PHANTOM STATE OF MANCHUKUO

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

EARL LYTTON'S ILLNESS

London, July 20.
The news of the apparently grave illness of the Earl of Lytton, the chairman of the League's Manchuria Commission, is deplorable, says the News-Chronicle in an editorial on the Far Eastern situation to-day.

The difficulties of the unfortunate League of Nations Commission in Manchuria were grave enough, the journal says, without any unnecessary addition thereto.

NEED FOR FIRMNESS.

Lord Lytton has shown firmness in resisting the impudent attempts of the so-called Manchukuo Government to dictate to the Commission, but the need for firmness is only beginning and it is not the "phantom State of Manchukuo" which will really test the energy and capacity of the Commission.

There is, says the News-Chronicle, a much more formidable claimant to its attention.—Reuter.

LORD LYTTON IN HOSPITAL.

Peking, July 20.
The Earl of Lytton, M. C., C. S. I., Dr. Wellington, K. C., Lord Astor and Mr. Donald, arrived at 10.50 a.m. by air from Shanghai.

ANOTHER C.E.R. OUTRAGE

TRAIN AND STATION LOOTED

Harbin, July 20.
Five hundred Red Spears yesterday attacked and looted a train and the station of Wokimoh, on the Chinese Eastern Railway, about fourteen miles to the west of Imienko.

Nine military guards and two passengers were killed. All the train crew, the remaining military guards and several passengers, were kidnapped.—Reuter.

DYNAMITE BOAT EXPLOSION

THIRTEEN BELIEVED KILLED

New York, July 10.
A drill boat, engaged in dynamiting shoals on the St. Lawrence River near Brockville, Ontario, was blown to pieces by an explosion to-day.

Two of the crew were killed and three were injured, while eleven are missing believed killed.—Reuter.

S.C.A.A. AND COUNCIL ELECTION

PROTEST TO THE CHAIRMAN

It is probable that among the "matters of importance" to be discussed at this evening's meeting of the Council of the H.K.F.A. will be a communication from the South China Athletic Association, suggesting irregularities at the recent annual meeting and requesting the convocation of an extraordinary general meeting for another election of members to Council.

It will be recalled that all the officers and old members of Council with one exception were re-elected for season 1932-33 and that the two candidates submitted by the Chinese clubs, Mr. Mok Hing and Mr. Ying-kwan, were rejected. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed at a subsequent meeting of the South China Athletic Association, among the contentions, it is understood, being a denial of the right of retiring Councilors to vote.

S.C.A.A. LETTER.

Signed by Mr. Mok Hing as the representative of the S.C.A.A. and addressed to the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.C., who took the chair at the recent annual meeting of the H.K.F.A., the letter states:

At the meeting of the South China Athletic Association yesterday, (July 12) I was instructed to ask the Chairman of the Hongkong Football Association who officiated at the Annual General Meeting of that body on 8th July to supply me with a list of the names of persons present together with the names of the affiliated clubs each represented.

There were 41 votes cast at the election of the Honorary Secretary, 23 votes for Mr. W. E. Hollands and 18 for Mr. R. H. Kotewall. Also some of the Councilors received as many as 43 votes. On pages 51-52 of the Association Handbook 1931-32, under "Clubs Affiliated to the Association," there are only 18 names. The maximum number of accredited representatives entitled to vote at that meeting according to Association Rule No. 5 could not therefore exceed 36.

The S.C.A.A. protest that the whole procedure, particularly the election at the Annual General Meeting of the H.K.F.A., is in order, and to ask you to call another General Meeting and have another election.

The courtesy of an early reply will be much appreciated.

COMPROMISE EFFORT.

No indication has been given of the attitude of the new Council to the issues raised, though there are rumours that efforts are being made, to arrange a compromise. Authoritative information on this point is, however, lacking.

The Chinese challenge to the right of Council to vote comes rather late in the day. Over a long period of years, it has been customary for members of Council to vote at the annual meeting and their right has never previously been contested. There will, nevertheless, be some sympathy with the argument presented by the voting bloc controlled by Council to exercise the powers apparently allotted to them under the rules.

COUNCIL CONTROL.

The Council should each year be elected by the club delegates, but if the maximum number of delegates (36) present themselves at the annual meeting, the Council can control the meeting with the assistance of ten votes from the delegations. With a 17-votes bloc, they can command a majority of 27 to 23, when the opposition majority among the delegates may be 26-10. If only 30 delegates turn up, the Council needs only 7 votes to establish its domination, whereas there may be an opposition among the delegates of 23 to 7, more than three to one.

When things are running smoothly, this is a situation which provokes little thought. In other circumstances, as in the present instance, it leads to friction, meaning as it does that unless clubs have been carefully canvassed by reformers, the Council can effectively resist the challenge of a majority of the clubs. This is plainly an unsatisfactory state of affairs.

SOVIET ORDER TO DALBANK

TO BE READY TO SUSPEND ACTIVITIES.

Harbin, July 20.
According to the Japanese press, the Dalbank has received instructions from Moscow to minimise its activities and to prepare to transfer its securities to foreign banks. The action ordered is similar to that which marked the Sino-Soviet fighting in 1929.—Reuter.

A REPLY TO DR. POPE

THE FULL STORY

Mr. M. K. Lo's questions to the Medical Officer of Health at yesterday meeting of the Sanitary Board, based upon an interview on Tung Wah Hospital cholera cases, given by Dr. Pope, and published in the Telegraph and S. C. M. Post, produced an allegation by the M. O. H. that he was incorrectly reported.

The suggestion that the statements were inaccurately attributed to the M.O.H. is surprising. Dr. Pope had many previous opportunities of correcting any alleged inaccuracies, but did not avail himself of them. Moreover, our reporter refutes Dr. Pope's suggestion.

THE FACTS.

The circumstances associated with the interviews may be stated as follows:

On June 29, in an interview with a Telegraph reporter, Dr. Pope said: A large proportion of the cases shown in the returns were taken out of the Tung Wah Hospital where they had been receiving native treatment.

Since Saturday, the authorities have been examining patients of the Tung Wah and other hospitals where native medicine is practised, and have removed all cases of cholera. The comb-out revealed that many cases were receiving treatment by native doctors, and the patients were accordingly removed.

ANOTHER INTERVIEW.

In an interview published in the Daily Press on June 30, Dr. Pope said:—The local Medical Authorities, suspecting that Chinese cases of the disease might be receiving native treatment, conducted a search, and succeeded in unearthing sixteen cases of cholera receiving Chinese treatment in Chinese hospitals. These cases were of course immediately isolated, and official notification followed as a matter of course, the fact that sixteen cases had been officially notified in one day being stated in the usual manner on the official returns.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS.

THE LOCAL GARBAGE SCANDAL

READER SUPPORTS MR. M.K.L.O.

A reader, signing himself "Citizen," writes us as follows:

As one who has his office in the centre of the town I can amply endorse Mr. M. K. Lo's remarks at yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board concerning the following:

(1) The S. D. lorries do stop every day opposite Lane, Crawford's shop in Entertainment Building.

(2) Whenever there is the slightest breeze, garbage being

The new Lambeth Bridge, photographed a few weeks ago, still uncompleted, which was opened by the King yesterday.

HANKOW SWELTERS

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN SPY "PERIL"

Hankow, July 20.

Like the greater part of the Yangtze Valley, Hankow is sweltering under the most severe heat-wave for several summers and the thermometer is daily soaring to over a hundred degrees in the shade.

The blazing heat has persisted for several days and owing to the acute discomfort in Hankow, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has decided to remove his headquarters to Mount Lochna at Wu-chang.

In an official decree, connected with the anti-Communist campaign, Chiang Kai-shek warns his officers and men to beware against associating with beautiful women, who, he says, may be Communist spies.

FOUR PUNISHMENTS.

The Generalissimo adds that the punishment for those found to be disobeying the order will be in four stages, namely, reprimand, demotion, imprisonment and execution.

It is reported that the Communist forces under the notorious Ho Lung, who have been hard pressed by the Government troops, are attempting to flee to Hunan from South Hupeh, but the Government troops, aided by three gunboats, are checking the retreat.—Reuter.

FINANCIAL CRISIS IN BRAZIL

DEBT SUSPENSION FOR MONTH

Rio de Janeiro, July 19.

The Brazilian Government has issued a decree authorising the suspension of all payments due in Brazilian currency until August 20.—Reuter.

SEVEN KILLED IN C.E.R. WASHOUT DISASTER

LUCKY ESCAPE OF TRANS-SIBERIA TRAIN

Harbin, July 20.

Seven persons were killed in a railway smash on the Chinese Eastern Railway on Sunday, and from details of the mishap which have just reached Harbin, it would appear that the Trans-Siberian express narrowly escaped the disaster.

The wreck occurred about sixteen miles to the east of Pokotu, a freight-train travelling westward jumping the track and overturning, carrying numerous wagons with it.

The mishap was due to the flooding of the River Yalu, which washed out a section of the line, undermining the track.

The Trans-Siberian express had passed safely over the same section of the line only thirty minutes before the freight-train came to grief.

The driver and his assistant were both killed, as were five men who were stealing a ride in the goods-wagons, sixteen of which were completely smashed.—Reuter.

GERMANY'S FATE

ELECTION FEVER DEVELOPS

(Reuter's Special Service).

Berlin, July 19.

Party fever throughout Germany from one end to the other is working up to an exceedingly dangerous pitch, in view of the general elections to be held on July 31.

The fate of the Lausanne Agreement, of Germany's economic system, even that of the Republic regime, will be at stake when Germany goes to the poll.

The activities of the Hitlerites and the Communists are fomenting disorders everywhere and there is a daily toll of casualties.

CAR'S RACE WITH LINER

CAPTAIN BENYON IN ISTANBUL

(Reuter's Special Service).

Constantinople, July 19.

Captain Yates Benyon, who is motoring across Europe and Asia in an attempt to beat the British-India liner Manara on its eight-thousand mile journey to Calcutta, has arrived here.

CHAOYANG BOMBED

JAPANESE SEEK PRETEXT

Peking, July 20.

Six Japanese aeroplanes bombed Chaoyang yesterday, according to a telegram received by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang.

Official circles deny any knowledge of the Ishimoto Incident, ostensibly the reason for the alleged attack on Jehol, and consider that it is merely another pretext for action which the Japanese military have long been contemplating.

It is pointed out that according to Japanese reports, Ishimoto was carried away by irregulars at a place located within Manchukuo territory and that, therefore, the area was under Japanese control not Chinese.

PREPARED TO RESIST.

It is further stated that no Government troops have been involved in any fighting, which has only been between Japanese troops and irregulars, but if Japanese troops attempt to penetrate into Jehol, Tang Yu-lin is prepared to resist the invasion with all the troops at his disposal.

The Japanese troops in the Chinchow and Chaoyang areas are believed to number between six thousand and eight thousand.

SERIES OF INCIDENTS.

According to the vernacular newspapers, there have been a series of minor incidents in the past week arising from Mongol bandit activities.

It is alleged that these incidents were instigated by the Japanese military authorities, strengthening the general belief that the Japanese will attempt to invade the difficult Jehol country sooner or later.

GROUND PREPARED.

Foreign circles are at present undecided whether the Ishimoto episode is an isolated incident or the beginning of the invasion of Jehol, for which the ground has been prepared for some weeks by constant propaganda by the Japanese Information Bureau at Tientsin, which is believed to voice the views of the Japanese Army.

The balance of opinion here is that major trouble is not likely to occur before the Lytton Commission leaves China, but, of course, it is impossible to predict the line likely to be taken by the Japanese military authorities.

LEGATION DENIALS.

Meanwhile, Japanese Legation circles discredit the stories that an invasion of Jehol is impending.—Reuter.

ONE ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Miss M. Braga, of 10, Knutsford Terrace, and Mrs. L. M. Remedios, of 1, Albany, Peak Road, had a somewhat alarming experience yesterday afternoon when a motor car which the former lady was driving came in collision with a bus in Nathan Road, at its junction with Kimberley Road.

Miss Braga was driving the car towards her residence from the direction of the Ferry and when turning into Kimberley Road she collided with a bus which was travelling in the opposite direction. Both vehicles were damaged, although not to any serious extent.

Mrs. Remedios received injuries to her head and was taken to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from concussion, cuts and bruises.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The declarer in the following hand provides against unusual distribution by carefully watching his re-entries to dummy.

The Bidding.

While South's hand contains five and one-half quick tricks it should not be opened with a forcing two-bid, as the hand contains more than three losing cards. The correct bid is one spade. West passes, North two diamonds, East passes, and now South can put in his forcing bid of three hearts. This requires the bidding to be kept open until game is arrived at. North would dare respond with four hearts and South should go to six.

The Play.

West has the opening lead and his proper play is the jack of clubs. A small club is played from dummy. West continues with the ten of clubs, a small club is played from dummy and declarer trumps with the five of hearts.

The declarer might try to ruff out spades, but if he should find five in one hand the contract would be defeated. His best chance is to try and set the diamonds so that the losing spades may be discarded, but he must watch his entries. Therefore before leading trump declarer plays the king of diamonds and then a small diamond to dummy's ace. The six of diamonds is returned from dummy and East discards the deuce of spades, declarer trumping with the eight of hearts. Declarer now plays his ace and king of hearts and then his last heart, the nine spot, to dummy's queen. This picks up the outstanding trump. Three good diamonds are led from dummy, declarer discarding his three losing spades.

Declarer then leads the six of spades to his ace and wins the last trick with the king of spades, making his contract of six odd.

CATHEDRAL CEREMONY ON MONDAY LAST

A pretty wedding was solemnised by the Rev. L. N. Watkins at St. John's Cathedral on Monday afternoon, when Miss Elsie May Robinson, the daughter of Mr. Robinson of Dunedin, New Zealand and the late Mrs. Robinson, became the bride of Mr. Francis Masters Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry, of Martinborough, Wellington, New Zealand. The bride, who was dressed in light navy blue georgette with peach coloured lace and hat to tone, was given away by Mr. A. V. Prince. Her bouquet was of peach coloured gladioli. Mrs. Christie discharged the duties of matron of honour, and wore a floral georgette frock. The best man was Mr. F. Neill. Following a reception at the residence of Mrs. Christie at Lyttelton Road, the happy couple left for Repulse Bay Hotel for their honeymoon, the bride's going away dress being of pink flowered voile and a light hat.

LIVELY SANITARY BOARD DEBATE

REMARKS RESENTED

There was a spirited debate at the Sanitary Board yesterday on Mr. Lo's motion on improvements to the garbage collection system. The motion was eventually put before the meeting and carried.

Those present at the meeting were Mr. G. R. Sayer (President), Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Vice-President), Dr. G. W. Fope (M.O. H.), Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Mr. M. K. Lo, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shiu-fan, Mr. C. Champkin, Mr. J. H. Gelling (Secretary) and Mr. J. C. Lang (Assistant Secretary).

Mr. M. K. Lo, pursuant to notice, moved:

That, in the opinion of this Board, the existing arrangements for the removal of refuse are unsatisfactory from the point of view of public health and hygiene, and that in order to make such arrangements more satisfactory from the viewpoint stated, this Board respectfully recommends to the proper authorities:

i. That up-to-date specially constructed and equipped vehicles be obtained for refuse removal when the time comes for new vehicles to be ordered in place of the existing ones.

ii. That in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport, and

iii. That the existing hours of collection of refuse be reviewed and revised.

Mr. M. K. Lo said: This motion is the result of the H. S. D's reply to certain questions which I put to this Board a little time ago. The gist of the H. S. D's reply seems to be this:—That, for the present, he does not propose to make any alterations in the existing arrangements, either as regards the type of the vehicles or as regards the hours of collection. In my submission both are equally unsatisfactory.

As regards the hours of collection, I have received strong complaints from people who ought to know, that it is absolutely disgraceful to have lorries stationed outside or near places like Lane Crawford's Cake Shop in King's Theatre Building, with refuse flying all around, in the busiest hours of the day, namely, between one and two p.m. I asked that lorries should not be stationed outside places in which food is exposed for sale, and the H. S. D. replied that no discrimination is made in this respect, and that it is not proposed to make any. But the two reasons he gives as justifying this attitude seem to me to be singularly unconvincing.

Afternoon Collection.

I realise that it is very desirable that there should be two collections in the town proper in the twenty-four hours. But I submit that the second collection should not commence at 1.30 p.m. in the centre of the town. I do not wish to be dogmatic as to the ideal time to commence the second collection. But I have been informed that any arrangement which would obviate the collection about 1 and 2 p.m. is preferable to the present arrangement, and I suggest that the second collection should commence about 5. And I feel sure that if the H.S.D. were publicly to invite an expression of view on this point from those affected, it would be readily forthcoming.

As regards dust boat stations, I agree that as long as the present antiquated type of lorries are used, it is imperative that such stations should be established on the sea front at convenient points so as to avoid long journeys through the streets. But these stations in themselves are a source of great nuisance. If when dust proof vehicles are introduced I hope that one central station may be selected right out of the town, as there would be no objection in dust proof vehicles taking a little longer time in getting to the station.

Type of Lorries.

As regards the type of lorries used, I understand the H.S.D.'s reply to me to mean that none of the existing lorries is provided with covers, and I submit that this fact alone condemns the existing arrangement. I need hardly labour this point because most of us must have had the extremely unpleasant experience of driving or walking behind one of those lorries and against the wind.

My colleague, Mr. Bellamy, who is taking a deep interest in this matter, was kind enough to send me a copy of The Commercial Motor dated 7th June, 1932, and I see in it that the first article in the issue is entitled "The Importance of Cleanliness," and I should like to make the following quotations, which seem so relevant to our discussion: "One of the most important events being held this week is the 34th Annual Conference of the Institute of Public Cleansing, which is taking place at Manchester. On Thursday there will also be a remarkably interesting display of power-propelled and other appliances, followed by a demonstration of their capabilities."

"Public cleansing in this country is attaining almost the position of a fine art, and the progress which has been made in this direction since the beginning of the century is truly remarkable. Perhaps it is just as well, because in few other countries in the world are there comparable conditions of congestion in the cities and important towns. Were it not for the work of the sanitary engineer and cleansing superintendent, assisted by manufacturers who have for years specialized in the production of cleansing appliances, the risk of the rapid spread of contagious diseases would be most grave."

No More Expensive.

"It has been proved in practice that the sanitary disposal of refuse, from both streets and houses, is no more expensive—in fact, often less so—than where insanitary methods are employed. Cleanliness is certainly next of godliness in this sphere of activity, as in many others, but even in the Metropolis one still finds examples of boroughs which pay far too little attention to this important matter. Even outside the very offices from which we

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Carey, so much beautiful, has become engaged to Ernest Heath, the former cup player. She has done so partly to provide for the future of her aunt who is ill and partly because she despairs of ever winning the man she really loves. Bob Dunbar, Denise Ackroyd, a detective, dislikes Susan and causes trouble between her and Bob. Ben Langman, a former admirer of Susan's, shows at length and then turns the gun on himself. He recovers and the affair is hushed up. Susan realizes she doesn't love Heath enough to marry him but can not tell him so. She sees Bob at the theatre and this awakens old memories. Denise tells Bob that Susan is a "traitor" and he becomes very angry. Jack Waring, Heath's assistant, warns Susan not to marry without love.

CHAPTER XL

Denise sat before her tuffeta-skirted dressing table, intent on the arduous business of making up. Her costume for the George Washington ball floated over a chair and her powdered wig lay on the broadened bed spread. Her mother's English maid, pressed to duty for the occasion, hovered behind. Presently Denise stood up, satisfied at last with the effect she had produced, and, slim and supple in her single, diaphanous garment, permitted herself to be arrayed in the pale blue frock with huge panniers and lace underskirt. This done, she adjusted the wig over her own shining tresses. The effect was marvelous. Instantly her gamin prettiness was transformed into spectacular beauty. She was as dignified as a lady in an ancient portrait.

She tried the effect of an infinitesimal patch near the corner of one eye and liked it. Then she seized an atomizer and sprayed herself casually with scent. "I think it's stupid the club committee insists on everyone wearing masks," complained Mrs. Ackroyd, watching the performance with interest. Stevens, the maid, slipped Denise's black mask into the pocket of her white fur wrap. "No, not there. Give it to me now," the girl demanded impatiently. "I may as well put it on before I start." She tied and adjusted it with care. The effect of the mask added piquancy to the whole costume. "You are a picture, miss," Stevens declared, with enthusiasm.

Denise snatched up her fan, allowed the wrap to be adjusted around her slim shoulders, and hurried downstairs. There a young grandee in biscuit coloured satin breeches and waistcoat of the same colour with lace frills at his wrists and buckled shoes on his feet awaited her. He, too, was masked.

"Come along. We're late," the girl said petulantly. The well-modelled lips of the young courtier curved in what seemed to be ill humour.

"Whose fault is that?" he demanded. "I've been waiting for hours."

This Denise ignored. "It's going to be a poisonous party anyhow. I'm sure of that," she rattled on, fluttering down the steps and managing with difficulty to insert her beruffled self within the confines of the waiting motor car.

"Everything's poisonous," muttered her escort, slamming the door.

"What did you say?" She eyed him suspiciously.

He growled, "Nothing at all," and subsided into his corner.

"You haven't a cigarette hidden about in all that lingerie, I suppose?" Denise wanted to know.

For answer the boy reached into the pocket of a coonskin coat slung over the back of the seat. He was an incongruous figure at the wheel of the big car, with his powdered wig and trappings of a blood of the late eighteenth century. It was strange to see him guiding this devil-machine of the twentieth century through the dark night. They should have had a coach and four.

No stranger was the sight Denise offered presently, a cigarette hanging limply from one corner of her elaborately rouged mouth.

"Why did you say everything is poisonous nowadays?" she demanded.

The man in the driver's seat threw her an annoyed glance. "I thought you missed that," he muttered.

"Me? I never miss anything," Denise told him airily. "I think I know what's gripping you."

"You're smart," said Bob Dunbar

with sarcastic intonation. "Aren't I, just?" She blew a cloud of smoke in his direction. "Let me tell you one thing, young fellow-my-lad. Daddy and your father have been getting together and they've decided they don't like the way you're behaving."

"So what?" the young man wanted to know.

"It was distinctly understood," Denise told him with dignity, "that we were engaged last summer. Oh, I know it wasn't announced or anything like that but you know and Daddy did and—well, everybody."

The boy moved restlessly. "Last summer is a long time ago," he reminded her.

"On, yes?" Denise's voice took on a tinge of shrewdness. "Well, you can't get away with what you've been doing lately. We Ackroyds, (here she tossed her head with that familiar gesture), 'we have our pride."

"What's all this got to do with me?" Bob muttered rebelliously.

Denise's manner changed. Into her tone crept the cooling note of the mourning dove. "What's the use of quarrelling the way we do?" she asked. "You can be nice and so can I. We team well together. Everyone's always said so. We like the same things and run with the same gang. The way I look at it, it all boils down to this. We have a better chance of making things go than most of the people we know. Daddy's awfully keen for it and so is your father."

"As if I didn't know that," growled the boy.

"Well then, why not let's be sensible about it? Let's please everybody and surprise them, and stop this ridiculous rowing we've been doing all winter." She was enjoying her role of peacemaker now.

The man shrugged. "You've got it all worked out, haven't you?"

"That's because I know what's best for both of us," said Denise with sweet reasonableness. "I'm willing to overlook all the times you've been nasty to me and start with a clean slate."

"I guess you're the doctor," Bob said, compressing his lips. The girl's cigarette described a wide arc as she flung it from her. They were curving into the drive of the country club now. She reached over and patted his shoulder possessively.

"That's my own sweet boy," she cooed, holding up her lips for a kiss.

"What did you say?" She stared at him through those small slits in the wisp of black cambric.

"What did you say?" Her partner put a firm, gentle hand on her arm and led her out like a blow. The scene was one of incredibly brilliant colour and movement. The shifting patterns which the dancers wore reminded her of scenes peered at through the lens of a kaleidoscope. She was thankful for the mask which had been sent with her costume. Thus furnished with anonymity, she felt braver, stronger. Why had Ernest insisted on her coming? It was odd. She had not expected to brave the terrors of his neighbourhood on the north shore until she was safely in his wife. But Jack Waring, in Heath's absence, had informed her that the message had come over the telephone from New York. Heath had not been able to reach her before going into Maine on that land business. He had said he wished Waring to escort Susan to the George Washington ball. Her costume would be delivered to her.

Susan ran her fingers over the pale apricot of her spreading skirt. She knew the colour became her utterly. Waring had come dressed as an Indian tribal chief. He was magnificent with his headdress of feathers, the glaring colours of his blanket. Yet it was odd he had chosen to dress this way, escorting a lady in powdered wig.

She felt excited and happy. Some dancers swayed in a minuet at the end of the great ballroom. How lovely it was to watch the measured, stately steps, the curving and pirouetting. She forgot herself completely as she watched.

Then a jazz piece broke this interlude into fragments and the guests were ordered to swing about in a "Paul Jones." Susan looked about, bewildered, for Jack Waring. He was nowhere to be seen. As the orchestra stopped abruptly she found herself facing a cavalier in biscuit coloured jacket and breeches. Tall he was and very erect. Without a word, she slipped into his arms.

The tempo of the music quickened and the girl's heart beats with it. This was magic—dancing like this. Her partner was a complete stranger, someone she would never see again probably. She gave herself up to the enjoyment of the moment.

When the music ended she murmured involuntarily, "Oh, I'm sorry." At the words, her partner bent a bright, searching gaze upon her.

"Say that again," She stared at him through those small slits in the wisp of black cambric.

END TO BAMBOO FIGHT IN WANCHAI

A fracas in Wanchai yesterday evening, when two gangs of coolies fought with bamboo poles, resulted in a Chinese detective being hit over the head with a bamboo, and his shooting the refractory coolie in the leg.

The man, Tsui Kee, aged 23, was taken to the hospital, where his condition is not regarded as serious.

The commotion between rival gangs occurred in Tai Yung Street, a little before 7 o'clock, when large numbers of men armed with bamboo poles fought a pitched battle in the street.

A Chinese detective, who assisted in dispersing the mob, was turned upon by Tsui Kee who resisted arrest. He struck the detective over the head with his pole, the policeman's helmet alone saving him from injury.

The detective straightway pulled out his revolver and shot the man through the right leg.

of the melee of flushed and laughing revellers. As one in a dream Susan went with him.

"Now, then!" They were hidden from the throng by the plush curtains of a little alcove. The music came to them muted and wraithlike.

The cavalier in biscuit-coloured satin untied Susan's mask with strong, purposeful fingers. She dared not—indeed, she never even dreamed of opposing him.

"Ah!" The monosyllable roused her to realization of what was happening. Rich colour flooded her pale cheeks. She clasped her hands in a sudden tragic gesture.

"You!" she cried. (To Be Continued).

OTTAWA HOPES

The stage is now set for the Ottawa Conference, which is to be officially opened to-morrow. It is not too much to say that this gathering of Empire statesmen is attracting more attention than any other Imperial Conference yet held. Not only in the Old Country and the Dominions, but in all parts of the world there is a belief that big decisions are likely to mark the Ottawa discussions, materially helping, it is hoped, in the task of dissipating the prevailing depression. Above all else, a determined effort will be made to bring the various units of the Empire into real and lasting co-operation. If hopes are realised, the Ottawa Conference will be written down in history as marking the beginning of that closer understanding for which well-wishers of the Empire everywhere yearn.

It has been disclosed from the published agenda that practically every sphere of the Empire's problems will be explored. As the various currencies and monetary standards of the Empire are to come in for consideration, it is opportune to direct attention to recent views on this subject by prominent people who hope that this issue will be courageously dealt with. Sir Basil Blackett, the noted economist, thinks that some plan should be evolved for the development of an area, no longer a little economic unit like Great Britain, but a large economic unit within which there would be opportunities for the exchange of goods and service, and within which we could for the time being forget the gold standard, having in its place a sterling standard which would keep the exchange of goods and service within the area free from the fluctuations which arise from foreign exchange. In Sir Basil's view, if the Conference can succeed in reversing the trend of depression and deflation, it will not only help Britain, but also the Empire and the whole world, to start again with more hope. Lord Leverhulme points out that the international agreement which the Macmillan Committee advocated for stopping disastrous deflation has not materialised, with the result that many countries in Europe have reverted to barter by their bilateral agreements. The fact that Britain is finding it increasingly difficult to secure payment for her exports means, he says, that before long she may be obliged to enter into such agreements. If an international understanding is not feasible, Lord Leverhulme thinks the opportunity provided by Ottawa should be used to reach agreement between the various nations of the Empire, and then seek the co-operation of those other nations with whom agreement may be possible.

It will be seen, therefore, that there is a demand for very thorough-going handling of monetary problems at Ottawa, in which connexion also it may be noticed that the New Zealand Premier has directed attention to the fact that currency difficulties are an important cause in the grave reduction in the value of Dominion products. For this reason New Zealand thinks that the price level, currency and banking problems must be an important feature of the Conference. Britain, we know, is entering the Conference chamber with an open mind on these and other issues. Moreover, there have been numerous indications that the Dominions are animated by a spirit which will rule out any meticulous weighing of respective concessions. The task will not be easy, but with goodwill and a desire for mutual benefit, it should be possible to register concrete results of advantage to all.

Other Aspects.

The Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa promises to have repercussions far beyond the territories immediately concerned. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's decision to send seven of his leading Cabinet Ministers to attend it indicates that Britain is well aware of this fact. The team selected includes Mr. Stanley Baldwin, and such experts in finance, economics and international law as Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. Walter Runciman and Lord Halifax, besides a full staff of departmental officers led by the Secretaries of State for Dominion, Colonial and Agricultural Affairs. The reason for so strong a delegation is not far to seek. Not only are there possibilities never before existent of establishing a British Empire Customs Union, but it is beginning to be seen that other nations must be affected by anything of the kind. The new feature in the situation is that Britain, by adopting protection, has put itself for the first time in eighty-six years in a position to afford fiscal favours to countries which reciprocate in kind. The conference is to build upon this, and make paths whereby goods may get through trade barriers now blocking world business. The task can be accomplished only gradually. Changes difficult to effect have to be made. Treaties promising "most favoured nation treatment"—lowest tariff rates—to other States stand in the way, and may have to be denounced. Existing inter-Empire contracts may also require modification. Only such mutual concessions as can be agreed upon in advance are at all likely to materialise while the conference is in session. The plan of procedure confines the Ottawa discussions to representatives of nations under the British flag. But Ottawa is to be followed by similar negotiations between Britain and other States, Denmark, Scandinavia and Holland have low tariffs, though capable of assimilation to the policy now adopted at Westminster, and are to be next approached. Other nations may be invited to join later on. A growing world circle of mutually lowered tariffs may thus develop. Freer trade relations generally are hoped for as the eventual outcome. The whole scheme is so vast that its implications have as yet only partially been realised, though Whitehall has been kept busy working out its programme. It is a hope, nevertheless, containing much that is good and much too that is by no means impossible of fulfilment.

DAY BY DAY

THE LIBERATOR GOES THROUGH THE WORLD WITHOUT MALICE, ENVY OR FEAR. HE KNOWS THAT JUSTICE, FREEDOM AND TRUTH SHALL TRIUMPH OVER ALL OBSTACLES IN THE END.

The Empress of Canada, from Shanghai, is due here on Friday at 9 a.m.

During a fight between two men at 32, Temple Street, one of the combatants received injuries to his head and had to be taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital for treatment.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed by all ports in the United States of America, including the Hawaiian Islands, against arrivals from Hongkong on account of cholera.

A married woman of 33, Cook Street attempted to commit suicide yesterday when she threw herself into the water off Hungshom. She was seen by a man on the steam launch Man Ping and rescued.

A four-year-old Chinese boy was knocked down by a private motor car in Queen's Road West yesterday, causing injuries to the left side of the lad's body. He was taken to the Government Civil Hospital.

Slight injuries were received by Li Mui, aged 18, when he was knocked down by a private motor car near the Causeway Bay tram terminus yesterday. He was taken to the French Hospital, where his injuries were treated.

A Chinese attempted to commit suicide early this morning by jumping into the harbour near the Yau-mai Ferry Wharf, Hongkong. A coxswain of the steam launch Kwong Lee, which was lying near the wharf, heard the splash and, on seeing the man, rescued him from a sampan.

Whilst a motor lorry was being driven along Murray Road near Butterfield and Swire's offices yesterday, one of the foks who was on the vehicle lost his balance and fell off. He was taken to the Police Station and later removed to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from serious injuries to his head. He succumbed early this morning.

There was no formal address at yesterday's meeting of the Rotary Club, but an interesting discussion took place regarding future programmes, when appeals were made to members to give them the benefit of their knowledge on various aspects of business. Mr. E. Cock created much amusement when he said that if the representatives of the Churches withdrew, he would be able to tell the meeting all about shipbuilding in one word.

TASK OF YOUTH

By "THIRTY"

WHEN once we have satisfied ourselves that we have, as far as is possible, taken all practical precautions to avert disaster, and to mitigate the effects if disaster should arise, we can turn our attention to the overhauling of the machine.

The precautions suggested in the last article are obviously not the only measures to be taken, and others will suggest themselves. There is, besides, the hope of something helpful emerging from Lausanne and Ottawa, even if the indications are not too favourable at the moment. But I think that most of the younger generation will agree that the only hope of permanent stability is, so to speak, to take down the machine of civilisation to the last nut for a thorough overhaul and examination.

Patching can only be a temporary palliative. There is clearly something too fundamentally wrong for us to expect recovery without a drastic revision of ideas as to the causes of the trouble.

It may be argued that one cannot take the machine of civilisation down to the last nut without bringing it to a standstill, but it is quite possible to examine it in sections to see where the errors in design lie, and still keep it running. But we must be prepared to get back to first principles and discard all our preconceived and traditional notions. We must take nothing for granted. No part of the design must escape ruthless and unbiased examination.

No one in his senses would suggest that there is any chance of the world as a whole revising its ideas. They are much too deep-rooted. But if leaders, instead of running round in frenzied circles, applying patches, would take time to examine our problems in the light of first principles, they might be able to create a more favourable atmosphere for the solution of those problems. At least there would be less danger of their adding to the mistakes they have already made.

Therefore, those of us who think about these things suggest that a cold and dispassionate examination of basic principles is not only an essential and a practical step, but probably the only one offering a chance of a successful and permanent solution of our troubles.

If we could be given a "trouble-finding chart" for our examination of the machine of civilisation, probably the first question we should find on it would be: "What is the machine for and why are you driving it?"

Those in charge of the machine would have no answer to this except: "We don't know and we are not meant to know." If they were asked why we "are not meant to know," they would probably reply that they had been told that by the Churches. But they would not be able to say where the Churches got that information.

We are handicapped, then, at the outset by ignorance of even the purpose of the machine which we are examining. But if we stick to first principles and known facts, it is possible that careful inspection of the component parts may throw some light on the purpose of the whole.

Ignoring superficialities, let us turn to the fundamental features of civilised life, such as, for example, democratic government.

We find that most of the civilised world is run on the assumption that every individual above a certain age is equally qualified to have a voice in government. As an extension of this principle, we find that the only profession in life for which no training or qualifications of any sort are considered necessary, is the profession of government. So convinced are our statesmen of the value of this idea that they regard it as a duty of pressing urgency to grant self-government to the illiterate, the disgruntled, the aboriginal, and the half-baked in every possible corner of the globe. Democracy is so universally accepted as one of the brightest jewels in the crown of civilisation that it occurs to few to question its real value.

But at the risk of being thought heretics, let us respectfully examine this theory of Democracy in the light of first principles and known facts.

It is a fact from which we cannot escape that folk are born into the world with regrettably unequal dowries of physique, health, and intelligence. No Parliament has so far been able to do anything about this troublesome working of a law of nature. Upbringing and environment may influence development after birth, but they can never offset, except in minor degree, initial discrepancies.

Yet in most of our conceptions of government we turn a blind eye to these discrepancies and assume that one and all are equally qualified to dictate the destiny of the nation. Can it be that with every extension of the franchise we have been receding further and further from the laws of nature and that our systems of government are founded on a colossal misconception? If so, might this not explain at least some portion of the mess we have made of the world?

Further steps along the same road of inquiry lead us to the economic consequences of our conception of democracy, for many of our present troubles arise from certain widely-held beliefs concerning the duty of the State towards the individual. With the extension of the franchise, on the other hand, we have heard less and less of the duty of the individual to the State.

Let us get back to first principles on this point. The "State" had no say in my arrival in this world. It did not ask for me to be born. Ethically, or logically, therefore, what sort of claim can I make against the State? If I have any claim against anyone it must be against my parents.

On the other hand, the State can legitimately make certain claims on me, so long as I choose to enjoy the protection and privileges which it offers. But it should be noted that there is no compulsion on me to live in the land of my birth.

Being born, after all, is rather like being elected to a club. There is no compulsion to take up the election, but there are certain responsibilities to the club if one does.

No club could survive if the members demanded, as a right, privileges in excess of the club's resources, especially if the committee had to bribe members with the club's funds to secure election. Yet that is the way in which the affairs of the great club which we call the State have been conducted in recent times under modern misconceptions of the rights of individual members. And, oddly enough, it is those members who talk most about "liberty" and "freedom" who are most anxious to enforce compulsory claims against their fellow-members.

Our suggested examination of the machine has not proceeded very far, but we have already encountered distinct indications of unsound design and faulty execution.

It is clear, too, that if our examination is correct, the repairs are going to take a long time and must entail considerable discomfort mental and physical, to the repairers. It is unlikely that our elders will take on the work, even if they agree with our diagnosis of the damage, so our heritage is indeed a hectic one.

In a final article to-morrow "Thirty" sums up his conclusions.

As advertised, a special vaudeville show, featuring Long Tack Sam and his daughters, is being given at Queen's Theatre on Saturday night. The tickets, at $10, $5 and $3, are selling well, and patrons are reminded that booking begins to-day. The tickets are vouchers which must be exchanged at the theatre for seat-tickets. The show is in aid of the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society.

LAMBETH BRIDGE OPENING

KING'S SPEECH AT CEREMONY

London, July 19. The new five-span bridge across the Thames at Lambeth, erected at a cost of £550,000, was opened by His Majesty the King this afternoon.

The bridge is an extremely graceful structure, built of steel and covered with a skin of granite. It has impressive pylons topped by lights at the approaches, and forms a very important part in the planning of London's traffic arrangements by opening up a new east-to-west route across the capital, thereby easing congestion elsewhere.

The bridge was designed by Sir Reginald Blomfield and erected by Messrs. Dorman, Long, the well-known engineers.

NOVEL OPENING.

The actual opening ceremony took a novel form. After the King and Queen had signed the Council's records, His Majesty used a pen to make an electric contact which caused the barriers across the bridge to rise perpendicularly into the air, Union Jacks breaking from their tops.

Thousands of schoolchildren who lined the bridge burst into cheers and trumpeters of the Life Guards blew a fanfare.

KING'S SPEECH.

Replying to an address, His Majesty the King recalled that since his parents opened the former Lambeth bridge fifty-three years ago, great alterations had occurred in the social conditions of London. The population of the vast area called Greater London had increased by three millions and among other new places, had been the coming of the motor car. Fresh problems had been created for the local authorities by these changes.

To guide and control the development of London, improve its housing and its means of communication, and raise the standard of the ever-growing amenities of daily life were described by the King as tasks of paramount importance and complexity.

WORKMEN PRESENTED.

After expressing his personal interest in London's traffic problems, His Majesty said the new Lambeth bridge would remain a monument to the skill and energy of the engineers, architects, and all parties of workers to whom he offered his congratulations on the completion of their great enterprise.

Four workmen, a mason, a steel erector, a pier sinker and a clerk of works representing the men who built the bridge, were presented to the King. British Wireless.

THREE POLICE CHARGED

ACCUSED OF TAKING BRIBES

Three Indian members of the Police Force, Sergeant Mirza Khan, Lance Sergeant Feroze Khan, and Police Constable Birkat Ali, were charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, with receiving bribes from Chau Cho-fun, a shop-keeper at 11, Sai Street.

Sgt. Mirza Khan is accused of receiving a dollar on six different occasions, L. Sgt. Feroze Khan of receiving 50 cents on four different occasions, and P. C. Birkat Ali of receiving a bribe of 50 cents.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, defendants being admitted to bail of $100 each.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

U.S. INVITED TO JOIN COMMITTEE

(Reuter's Special Service).

Geneva, July 19.

The League Committee preparing for the world economic conference has invited Belgium and the United States to participate in the work of the Committee, which will consist of representatives of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Belgium and America, with a Norwegian chairman.—Reuter.

YOUNG SNATCHER CAUGHT

SOLDIERS JOIN IN CHASE

Miss M. Smith, of 3D Block, Military Quarters, Kennedy Road, was the victim of a snatching incident in Battery Path, near Garden Road, last night, when a young Chinese attempted to relieve her of her handbag. The alarm was raised and the culprit chased by three soldiers and an Indian constable, his arrest being effected after he had taken shelter under the Baliffs' Hut between the Public Works Department and the Colonial Secretary's Office.

In relating the incident to Mr. Wynne-Jones, before whom the arrested youth was charged with attempted larceny, Miss Smith said she was walking towards Garden Road in company with her mother shortly after 9 o'clock last night, when she felt a tug at her handbag. She instantly turned around and saw a youth run away. He was wearing white clothing and had long hair. Both she and her mother screamed and an Indian constable and three soldiers who were nearby took up the chase, the Indian blowing his police whistle.

The fugitive ran up the steps leading to the Colonial Secretary's Office with the party of pursuers not far behind. When Miss Smith arrived at the top she saw the soldiers and the Indian, who had been joined by a second Indian constable, surrounding the Baliffs' Hut. One of the soldiers remarked that the man was underneath the hut. A constable then went underneath and brought the defendant out.

In denying the allegation of theft, the defendant said he had recently arrived in the Colony from Canton and was not aware of the habits of local residents. When he heard the police whistle being blown, he instantly ran away and hid himself under the hut.

Evidence corroborative of that of Miss Smith was given by Mrs. Smith and the Indian constable who collected the man's arrest, after which his Worship registered a conviction and ordered the defendant to receive twelve strokes of the cane, he being only 16 years of age.

A REPLY TO DR. POPE.

interviews that the Tung Wah Hospital had failed to notify cases of cholera.

Certain prepared questions were submitted to Dr. Pope and the published interview, the accuracy of which was yesterday denied in terms of a similar invention by the reporter, was based on Dr. Pope's replies. Our reporter declares that Dr. Pope said:

THE DISPUTED STATEMENTS. "The sixteen cases reported on Tuesday were all from the Tung Wah Hospital. They were discovered by the Superintendent of the Kennedy Town district who had them immediately removed to the Kennedy Town Hospital. There is no doubt that those cases should have been notified, and the failure to do so can only be laid down to omission or ignorance on the part of those responsible. Any person, layman or practitioner, is compelled to notify cholera, and under the circumstances the people responsible for not notifying the authorities would be liable. This is not, however, a matter for my department. I don't think any further steps will be taken, in view of the fact that the cases were discovered."

BOARD MEETING. On Monday, July 18, the South China Morning Post, which reported the Telegraph interview, received a letter from Dr. S. W. Phoon, of the Tung Wah Hospital, challenging Dr. Pope's statements.

On July 15, a meeting of the Sanitary Board was held and Dr. Pope spoke on the question of the cholera menace and introduced two emergency motions. But he did not take the opportunity to deny the accuracy of the interview which was the subject of Dr. Phoon's complaint.

On July 7, a reporter was sent to interview Dr. Pope on the cholera situation and again, significantly, the M.O.H. made no attempt to correct, if he thought corrections were necessary, the statements in the previous interview.

THE FIRST DENIAL.

Although as a Government servant, the M.O.H. might not be permitted to write to the newspapers, following the publication of Dr. Phoon's letter, there was still nothing to prevent him, if he had reason to believe that he had been misreported, especially in a manner casting reflections upon an institution such as the Tung Wah Hospital, from asking to see the reporter again. But Dr. Pope, with several opportunities, offered made no denial or correction until yesterday, when challenged to justify his statements by Mr. M. K. Lo.

NINE-HOUR SPEECH CONCLUDES

THE FRENCH BANK APPEAL

REPLY BEGUN

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., this morning opened the case for the plaintiff respondent in the Full Court appeal in which the French Bank seeks to quash Mr. Justice Wood's judgment in favour of Mrs. Chu Shuk for $42,000 as damages for alleged wrongful sale under a deed of mortgage.

Sir Peter Grain presided. Other judges comprising the Full Court were Sir Joseph Kemp and Mr. Justice Wood.

THE TRUE VALUE.

Concluding his address, Mr. Jenkins submitted that should all other points be against him then the true value of the mortgaged property was not $42,000 but $39,000. The trial judge, he said took the rental as $290 a month whereas he should have taken $265 which was in fact the rent being paid at the time the property was sold. He advanced this point only if the Court was against him on all other grounds. His case was that $39,000 was the correct valuation.

After quoting extensively from Privy Council appeal cases, Mr. Jenkins resumed his seat at 10.30 o'clock. He had addressed the Court for exactly nine hours.

Mr. Potter then opened his case. He intimated that he would deal with "construction" and "consent" points, leaving the other features of the case to Mr. Sheldon.

BANKING FACILITIES.

"The only dispute in the matter of construction," said Mr. Potter, "is what banking facilities are covered by this deed, and once you answer that question, there is little more to be done."

Mr. Potter submitted that the counsel for the bank had said the deed provided that the plaintiff was responsible for Pittendrieh's overdraft account. Obviously that would be the position taken by the bank, but he asked, would it not have been a most simple thing to include it in the deed?

Still dealing with construction, Mr. Potter contested the argument advanced by the bank that Covenant One, taken with the last proviso of the document, was sufficient. In no way, he argued, did Covenant One define "banking facilities." The term "banking facilities applied for" was wide open.

DEED BADLY DRAWN?

During an intricate discussion on points of construction between Sir Joseph Kemp and Mr. Potter, Sir Joseph said he considered the deed was badly drawn up.

Mr. Potter took issue and considered the deed quite clear.

Continuing, he said Covenant Two defined three classes of banking facilities, all of which must be authorised in writing. On these three and on no other was the plaintiff to be responsible because the proviso said she was only to be liable for "banking facilities herein provided." There was no specific definition for "facilities" in Covenant One.

"Our position is this," he continued. "We take the deed as a whole in order to extract the true meaning. My point is that this deed was not drawn up for the purpose of granting general banking facilities. It says certain banking facilities. There it nothing which provides for liability on our part on ordinary current account balance; nothing which provides for general banking facilities."

Mr. Potter was still dealing with the construction of the deed when the Court adjourned.

MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

SAID TO HAVE SHOT WIFE FIRST

A family tragedy in Tung Kun, in Chinese territory, has been revealed to the local authorities by the admission to the Kowloon Hospital of a married woman, who is stated to have been shot by her husband.

No details of the affair are available, but the woman, Leung Yeung, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday suffering from a bullet wound in her chest. It is stated that she was shot by her husband, Wong Fuk, in their native village of Om Shun Tau.

The incident is reported to have occurred on Wednesday last, and it is further stated that on Thursday Wong Fuk committed suicide.

EXECUTIONS THIS MORNING

TWO MEN PAY THE PENALTY

The Victoria Gap Road murder case had a sequel this morning, when Cheung Man and Chueng Tze-yan, two of the three men sentenced to death at the Supreme Court on May 14 for the murder of Tsang Tai-kai, a student who had been living with his parents at Shauiwan, were executed by hanging within the precincts of Victoria Gaol.

The two executions were simultaneously carried out a few minutes after 5 a.m. in the presence of Prison officials, including the Superintendent, Mr. J. W. Franks, the Chief Warden, Mr. G. L. Buchanan, and the Prison Medical Officer, Dr. Griffith.

A post-mortem examination by Dr. Griffith of the corpses after these had been moved into the Prison Morgue showed that death was instantaneous.

The customary death inquiry, held later in the morning by Mr. Wynne-Jones, returned a verdict of death by execution according to due process of law. The jury comprised Messrs. R. J. White (foreman), W. M. Gittins and Kwan Si-kwan.

The execution of the third condemned man, Cheung Sau-fu, takes place at dawn tomorrow.

JADE RING STOLEN FROM SHOP

Several European residents figure in a series of thefts and losses reported to the police authorities yesterday.

From Miss J. E. Cousens, of the Jade Tree, Ltd., the Arcade, Gloucester Building, comes the report of the loss of a jade ring, which was found to be missing after would-be customers had visited the shop. In a report to the police, Miss Cousens states that three Chinese men entered the shop at 2 p.m. yesterday and examined some jade rings, but made no purchase. After they had left, about fifteen minutes later, it was discovered that a gold ring set with a jade stone was missing. The value of the ring is given as $100.

Mr. G. H. Paine, of 5, Lock Road, third floor, has notified the police that some time on Monday last some-one stole from his residence money and a cigarette case to the total value of $55.

Whilst a motor car belonging to Mr. D. S. Edwards was parked outside Claremont Hotel, in Austin Road, during the tiffin hour yesterday, some-one stole the radiator cap, valued at $5.

Some time after 9 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. S. Jervis, accountant of the Hongkong Electric Company, who was walking from 12, Bonham Road to the Military Quarters in Kennedy Road, dropped a pocket book from his jacket pocket. The book contained $15 and some papers.

A wallet belonging to Capt. E. Godinez, of 3, Liberty Avenue, Homuntin, was lost by the owner some time between 7 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. last night. It was dropped during the journey from the Yau-mai Ferry Wharf, Hongkong, to Capt. Godinez's residence. It was stated to have contained money, a passport and important private papers, the loss being placed at $185.

JOY-RIDING AS DEFENCE

ALLEGED THEFT OF BICYCLE

That the defence of joy-riding could not stand, inasmuch as a push bicycle was portable and could be carried away was the contention of Sub-inspector Elston at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when prosecuting a Chinese lad for theft of a bicycle.

Defendant, who was said to be a cook employed at the Water Police Station, denied the charge of theft. He said he found the vehicle in the station compound, and took it away for a ride.

Inspector Elston said the complainant left his bicycle outside the Tsimshatsui Market, and when returned for it later, he found it had gone. He reported to the police, in consequence of which Inspector Elston went out with the complainant to make inquiries.

They found the bicycle outside a shop in Nathan Road, and caught the defendant riding away to Shamshuipo.

Inspector Elston contended that defendant must have known that he had no right to take the cycle away.

After evidence was taken, his Worship remanded the case until to-morrow in order to give the defendant an opportunity to bring more evidence in support of his case.

LATEST CRICKET RESULTS

London, July 19.
Hampshire, Notts and Warwick were the only
teams to gain full quota of
points from their matches in
the county cricket programme, the remainder being decided on first inning.

Bowlers had matters pretty
well their own way, several outstanding feats being accomplished, but Bates of Warwick
succeeded in conquering the attack to score 211 and Sandham hit the Lancashire trundlers in all parts of the field.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Surrey (144-8 dec. & 119-0 dec.)
beat Lancashire (240 & 121-1)
on 1st innings at the Oval.
Hampshire (268 & 120) beat Worcester (139 & 168) by 81 runs
at Dudley.
Northants (315 & 248-5 dec.) beat Gloucester (236 & 212-5) on 1st innings at Swanshead.
Notts (237 & 101-1) beat Middlesex
221 & 115 by nine wickets at Nottingham.
Leicester (271 & 32-1) beat Essex (216 & 265-8 dec.) on 1st innings at Leicester.
Somerset (246 & 62-2) beat Derbyshire (148 & 321-9 dec.) on 1st
innings at Derby.
Warwick (178 & 135-6) beat Gloucester (385 & 227) by four
wickets at Gloucester.

FRIENDLY MATCH.

Yorkshire (161-8 dec. & 68-1) beat

MACAULEY 8 FOR 21

BATES OF WARWICK
SCORES 211

LANCS BOWLING COLLARED

Bates the Warwickshire bats-
men, enjoyed the chief distinction
among the run-getters by scoring a double century against Gloucester,
who were soundly beaten by four wickets. His 211 were made out of a total of 478, and this huge score
was made in reply to Gloucester's useful aggregate of 385 for the first innings. Walter Hammond showed
a glimpse of his best-form in contributing 92, but Warwick displayed an all-round superiority
which made them deserved winners.
Surrey fairly played the Lancashire attack, scoring 144 for 8
declared in their first venture
(Sandham 151 not out) and rattling
up 119 for no wickets at the second time of asking, when again
the declaration was made. Lancashire were fortunate to escape an outright defeat.

BOLD DECLARATION.

Hampshire's victory over Worcester, being one of the three matches which reached an outright
decision, was largely the work of Brook, who bowled magnificently
to take, during the match, 10
wickets for 89 runs.

Yorkshire bowlers enjoyed themselves against the Indians, Macau-
ley capturing 8 wickets for 21 runs
and Verity adding further to his large stock of victims by securing 5 for 65. Yorkshire won with ease by six wickets. Interest in the match was livened by the declaration made by the Yorkshire
captain who brought their first innings to a close when only one run ahead of the visitors. Finally,
however, the "Tykes" were set by 68 to win.—Reuter.

FLOGS BOWLING

SANDHAM, of Surrey, who flogged the Lancashire bowlers
to carry his bat for a masterly
innings of 145, scored out of a total of 444 for 8 declared.

Chua Choon-leong, who with Yong Loon-Choon captured the Singapore Open Doubles tennis
championship a few weeks ago,
and who also made a successful
tour of Sumatra and Malay States
with Denis Hazell last year, is at present in Hongkong en route on a business trip to Shanghai.

Chua is one of the leading Chinese tennis players in the Malay
peninsula, having won the Singapor and Malayan doubles championships on several occasions.
He has also visited Manila and
defeated G. Aragon in an exhibition match.

Last year he played in a doubles
encounter against E. D. Andrews,
the Davis Cup player, and won.

During his brief stay in Hongkong, Chua, who is paying his first visit to the Colony, is having one or two knock-ups with local leading players.

This afternoon he will team
with Denis Hazell against Tsui
Wai-pui and A. L. Sullivan on the Cricket Club ground; to-morrow
they will oppose E. C. Fincher
and Reid (the Shanghai Football and Swimming Interceptors) at the K. C. C. and on Friday will probably meet the Rumiahn cousins

IMMENSE INCOMES BEING MADE BY AMERICAN SPORTSMEN

AMERICA may be wallowing in
the slough of financial depression, but her coffers are not so empty that she cannot afford to heap dollars upon her sporting
champions. Mr. Gene Sarazen, the winner of the British Open Golf Championship, has declared publicly that a fortune awaits him in the United States. He estimates that his victory means £40,000 to him and probably a great deal
more.

His case is no exception. Since
the war salaries of fantastic proportions have been paid to champions in every branch of sport,
from ping-pong to Atlantic flying.
If you want to be a successful
actor, film star, public speaker or journalist in America you do not enter these professions at the bottom and climb the long ladder;
you merely win some outstanding
sporting event and, all in the twinkling of an eye, you can act,
you can make speeches, you can write articles.

Whilst American sportsmen are on the flood-tide of success they
live in a more lavish way than Nero ever dreamed of. Their hotel
bill usually costs them £100 a
week. Mr. Walter Hagen, another champion golfer, has forty suits
of plus fours. Mr. Sarazen, however, has hopes of exceeding this number. Indeed, the seconds of
a champion boxer and the caddies
of a champion golfer earn salaries in excess of those of the members of the Cabinet of the British Government.

"BABE" RUTH'S £20,000 A YEAR.

Naturally the spectacle of these
sportsmen basking in such fabulous wealth is bound to give rise
to the question of their motives.
Are we to believe that this craze
for sport in the United States is the natural outlet of love of games or love of dollars?

Our British sportsman, receiving his modest pay envelope, must occasionally think that being born
on this side of the Atlantic Ocean
is not without its financial disadvantages. Alec James, recog-

Gene Sarazen.

as good in their particular line
as American stars. "Dixie" Dean
is as good a footballer as Ruth is
a baseball player; Larwood can bowl as well as Jones can drive.
Yet there is this amazing disparity in their salaries.

Why? Chiefly, I think, because Britain still plays her games out
of sheer love of sport. Is there any American, patriotic or otherwise, who can say the same thing
about his country? The Golden Calf does not exist in British sport. It is rarely absent from the American playing field. The coach of the football team of one of America's most important universities earns more each week
than the combined weekly salaries
of the players of England's foremost football team.

THE BRITISH WAY.

But Britain has no truck with astronomical figures. Her star
athletes receive salaries which, a third-rate crock in America would sneer at. The sportsmen themselves are not at all enthusiastic about big money. Offers from American and French football
managers at the close of last football season, which were three times as attractive as terms in Britain, were turned down by practically every important footballer
in the country.

The difference between American and British sport is perhaps mainly one of temperament. The British temperament does not associate sport with money. When
it thinks of tennis, cricket, football, or any of a hundred and one
other sports, it thinks in terms of
green fields, cheering crowds, the sweetness of victory, or the bitterness of defeat. The sign of the almighty dollar or pound does not loom over British sport.

Of late there have been tentative feelers put out to sound British sport on the financial question. The financiers behind the operations are not at all sanguine
about changing sport into a business in Britain. After all, they say, those British, they were always mad!

write, horsed refuse vehicles are employed, in which the contents are most inadequately protected, so that the vehicles shed rubbish and dust, particularly when there is a slight breeze. There can be no excuse for the employment of such antiquated means. Power-propelled appliances have shown themselves to be ideal for this class of work, whether they be driven by steam, petrol or electric power, and improvements in their design are constantly being made, whilst their cost is by no means excessive.

"As an example of two types brought out recently, there is one in which a hydraulic ram serves to compress the refuse into the smallest possible space, thus permitting a larger amount to be loaded, whilst the other has a hopper which during the running of the vehicle, is emptied by a conveyor operated from an axle, the refuse being lifted into a high container. Apart from such specialized machines, considerable progress is being made in the development of types in which the loading can be effected without exposing the contents of bins, and there are other arrangements in which the bins themselves are carried between the living areas and the destructors."

Modern Methods.

In that issue there is an article, with illustrations, entitled "Modern Means for Public Cleansing," being advance particulars of the exhibition and demonstration in connexion with that week's Cleansing Conference in Manchester. The types of vehicles are various: some of them are driven by electricity with hydraulic tipping rams; some are equipped with a ram capable of moving along the length of the compartments, and of compressing into as small a compass as possible the bulkier and compressible refuse; but all proceed on the principle that the vehicle should be dust proof, the opinion being expressed elsewhere in the same issue that refuse collectors with open bodies are "inevitably doomed." The paper has also an article on "Modern Tendencies in Refuse Collectors," and there can be no question if open lorries are an anachronism. With Mr. Bellamy's consent I propose to leave this journal with the H.S.D., so that any of my colleagues who may be interested can have a look at it. I suggest that the H.S.D. should get into touch with the Manchester authorities and ascertain from them the result of the conference.

In the meantime I come to deal with the existing lorries which are in use.

Modern Exhibited.

The H.S.D., in answer to me, stated "As at present advised I think it is better to continue searching for the ideal unit of transport on the assumption that it will not be sub-divided. Sub-division would tend to cause delay in loading and off-loading." I have noticed that many of the modern dustless vehicles are not sub-divided, and I am not pressing for any sub-division as long as the lorry can be made dust proof.

Mr. E. Cock, who always takes such a keen interest in public affairs, was good enough to discuss this matter with me, and was kind enough to have constructed for me, for demonstrating to this Board, a small model of a lorry of the type in use adapted to have lids put on so as to make it dust proof. The model is now on the table, and I think we all must agree that, with very little expenditure of money, the existing lorries can be made dust proof, and I do press that something on the lines suggested by the model should be put in hand at once.

With these few words I move the Motion standing in my name.

Mr. Sayer's Reply.

Mr. G. R. Sayer, Head of the Sanitary Department, said that if the motion had been for a selected committee of the Board to investigate the Board's existing arrangement regarding the type and time of the refuse lorries used in Hongkong, he would have welcomed the motion, since there were members on the Board who were well able to speak on the technical side of the whole thing. Mr. Lo's motion, however, was nothing of the sort. It merely invited members of the Board to disapprove of the existing type of lorry and the times at which they were in use. Mr. Lo's motion made no mention of the type of lorry desired, or of the time which would be most welcome. Of course the speech had some concrete proposals, but Mr. Sayer said he wanted to impress on members that they would be called upon to vote on the motion and not on Mr. Lo's speech, and on that ground he invited the Board to reject the motion.

His second point, said Mr. Sayer, was that Mr. Lo had given no indication of the times at which he wanted the lorries to collect refuse. Speaking of the second clause in Mr. Lo's motion, Mr. Sayer said that anyone reading that might infer that the lorries were in the habit of throwing away refuse which they were supposed to collect.

"That motion—at least that clause in the motion—is an absolute libel on our service," said Mr. Sayer, who added that the clause was used by Mr. Lo as a description of a most useful service which was being undertaken by the Sanitary Department. It was a most unfair description. Mr. Sayer asked, why, if the service was so inefficient, had there been such a marked absence of bubonic plague during the past nine years?

Chinese Aren.

Mr. Sayer said that his third reason for asking the Board to reject the motion was that the motion was for something more modern. Coming as it did from the Chinese community, they were entitled to assume that it concerned that particular part of the town almost exclusively used by the Chinese community. He said that the houses in that district were mainly nineteenth century houses, and the streets were crowded with stalls and booths, medicine sellers and pedlars, and itinerant hawkers and potting writers. The houses and the streets were purely medieval, and he suggested that it would be out of place to put a really modern lorry in this city in view of the preponderance of the 19th century houses. Between Pedder Street and Eastern Street, of a total of about 4,500 houses, about 3,900 were erected before 1903.

When the Board reflected that these houses harboured tuberculosis and that about 50 people died of this disease every week, the suggestion that they should have a more modern lorry was something in the nature of a grim joke. Mr. Sayer went on to say that he made no attack on the Chinese community. He was in favour of modernism, but he asked the Board to preserve a sense of proportion and reminded them that they had to face the practical position. The lorries now in use had to cope with narrow, slippery and crowded thoroughfares and so far they have done very well, as the absence of serious accidents would show. The lorries in use came from established British firms.

Dr. Basto Supports Motion.

Dr. Castro Basto, speaking on the motion, said: "Frankly speaking, I cannot see how it is that Mr. Lo's motion is not acceptable. I will take the motion part by part and comment on it. With regard to the first clause I find it to be a reasonable suggestion. Progress is being made every day, and there are new vehicles being turned out in England. Mr. Lo's suggestion is a very good one, and worthy of consideration, at least even a trial. If it happens that it is not workable after the trial, then we may go back to the old vehicle.

With regard to the second clause, I have seen myself that when these lorries are overfull, and when they get a move on, a certain amount of garbage falls off. But there is one thing that I am in disagreement with the Chairman, and that is that while there are certain states of affairs in this Colony, it is no reason why we should not advance in other directions. We must make a start somewhere. Just because there is tuberculosis and overcrowding and so forth, it does not mean we should not consider this question of garbage removal.

With regard to the work of the Sanitary authorities in this Colony, I must say that they have done very well. It is no slight to the Sanitary Department that one puts forward such a suggestion. Great credit is due to the Sanitary Department, but this does not mean that the authorities should sit down and be satisfied with what has been done.

Mr. Lo Replies to Chairman.

Replying to the Chairman's remarks Mr. Lo said:

Your first point was that if my motion had been worded differently you would have agreed to it. You are the H. S. D.; I put a series of questions to you, and I should have thought that if you had thought the committee would have helped you, that this proposition would have come from you. You could have moved for a committee if you wanted any advice. In view of the answers I got from you, I felt, and I feel, that the only way of getting a move-on is to move the motion in the present way. I am very anxious to dispel at once that there is any intention on my part of making any attacks on the service of the Sanitary Department in running this refuse collection.

Mr. Sayer.—I did not say that.

Mr. Lo.—Now you say that you did not suggest it, but I certainly gathered it was in your mind, and I want to give this assurance that it was not intended. I do not want to waste the Board's time by replying at too great a length, but I want to thank Dr. Basto who spoke for my motion. What is the nature of the motion? My motion really is that in the opinion of this Board the existing arrangements for the removal of refuse are unsatisfactory from the point of view of public health and hygiene, and that in order to make such arrangements more satisfactory from the viewpoint stated, this Board respectfully recommends to the proper authorities that up-to-date, specially constructed and equipped vehicles be obtained for refuse removal when the time comes for new vehicles to be ordered in place of the existing ones, and that in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport, and that the existing hours of collection be reviewed and revised.

Are They Satisfactory?

Are you satisfied that these arrangements are considered to be satisfactory? Are you prepared to stand up and say they are so satisfactory that I don't want them im-

LORD LYTTON ILL

TO GO TO HOSPITAL IN PEKING

Tsingtao, July 19.

The Chichibu Maru arrived here at 11.30 a.m. and the Commission, except Lord Lytton and Lord Astor landed at 1.15. They were welcomed by Dr. Wellington Koo and prominent residents.

Lord Lytton was brought ashore in a stretcher by Lord Astor this afternoon and taken by ambulance to the British consulate.

All left for Tsinanfu this evening, where Lord Lytton, aboard Chang Hsueh-liang's aeroplane will go to Peking on Wednesday morning and then to the Peking University Medical College hospital, suffering from internal chill and low fever.—Reuter.

Widespread Anxiety.

Shanghai, July 19.

The news of Lord Lytton's illness has caused much anxiety in London, Shanghai, Nanking, Peking and Tokyo, and it is pointed out that the rigours of the climate, the constant travelling and the arduous nature of his task are sufficient to try the health of anyone, especially a man of Lord Lytton's age. He will be 66 on August 9.

Arrangements for the use of Chang Hsueh-liang's air liner to convey Lord Lytton to Peking from Tsinanfu were made by wireless from the Chichibu Maru.

Lord Lytton had been unwell for some time, but so far it was not thought necessary for him to enter hospital.

Much sympathy is being expressed in Chinese circles for Lord Lytton, and everyone is figuratively following his special train, as it stems onward to Tsinanfu.—Reuter's Special.

proved? I submit anyone who has to walk through these streets, as I have to, very frequently in the locality which gives rise to these representations, would have no hesitation in saying what experience they get by walking or driving behind the lorry.

The particular locality in which you live may not render it necessary for you to go to places in respect of which this representation arises. Your answer to me that in the Peak refuse is carried away at night may be one explanation why you do not experience that nauseating feeling which most of us experience.

I am glad Dr. Basto has done me the honour of making my motion plain, where perhaps, my bad English would not have done so. You Sir, seem to be very annoyed with sub-clause 2 of my motion, reading that in the meantime the existing lorries be so structurally altered as to prevent the throwing off of refuse on to the streets during the transport. You think it is a great indictment and a great insult. But I do say that lorries do shed refuse when they are fully loaded.

I enjoy very much your wonderful and vivid description of insanitary Chinese houses. I think that if you are not occupying the place you are now occupying the Chairman would have held you out of order. I don't see what that has to do with the motion now before you. I cannot help saying I resent some of your remarks in so far as you suggest that I as a representative of the Chinese, and therefore representing such an unhygienic community as the Chinese should have the cheek, and you call it a grim joke, that I their representative should come before you and call for improvement. That is what I infer from your remarks. That is what you intend to say, I presume. I venture to say that no H. S. D. could have made a greater blunder or a greater and more fundamental mistake in what I call constitutional law in this Colony. We the Chinese representatives are not responsible for the condition of the slums. If you accept that fact, and that constitutionally I am here nominated to represent Chinese interests, it is part of my duty to this Board, and therefore to the Colony to bring these facts before you. I don't see where the grim joke comes in at all.

No Joke Intended.

Commenting that this attitude might account for so many motions being left to the limbo of forgotten things, Mr. Lo continued:

I do not intend my remarks to be a grim joke. No insult of any kind was intended by me on the Sanitary Service. I am not sure, Sir, whether the complacency with which some officials regard the progress of this Colony sometimes affects the efficiency of the administration. In dealing with a motion of this kind you congratulate the Board, and the Board must congratulate itself that the Colony has not had bubonic plague for nine years. You, therefore, say that all of that efficiency is attributable to the Sanitary Board. May I remind you of one thing: that plague has not visited Hongkong for nine years, but it has also not visited Macao or Canton and neighbouring ports for a similar period, and therefore I do not think that the fact that you have had no plague for nine years should debar us from assuming that something in the Sanitary Department is capable of improvement.

As I have something concrete now to indicate to you, I propose to press my motion without altering its form. I therefore ask my friends to vote for me.

The motion was put to the vote, and was carried.

APPEAR

Wuchow, July 18.
It is anticipated that before many days are past the new Kwangsi bank notes will appear in the banking establishments and business houses of Wuchow.

The new notes are to take the place of the older series which were backed by the mining resources of Kwangsi Province. The older series is being recalled at par, it is said by those in the know.

The exchange rate of Hongkong currency in buying Kwangsi and Kwangtung silver specie remains around 143, with the rate rising and falling a fraction of a point according to demand. Kwangsi and Kwangtung silver are used interchangeably in the stores.—Our Own Correspondent.

RAILWAY CHIEF RESIGNS

RESENTMENT OVER CRITICISMS

Ottawa, July 19.
Consequent on criticisms of the management of the Canadian National Railways, Sir Henry Thornton has resigned his post as President of the concern and Chairman of the Board of Directors, which he has held since 1922.

Sir Henry has had a distinguished career in railway administration both in Canada and the United States.—Reuter.

DOLLAR SLIGHTLY DOWN

THE LOCAL MARKET LIFELESS

The Hongkong dollar has declined 1/8th to-day to 1s. 3 1/2d. The local market is lifeless.

In London, silver is down 1/8th, the fall being chiefly due to lack of support, with America small seller. After the official fixing, the market ruled quiet, with no special feature.

New York reports silver down 1/8th, on a dull market.

Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Prime Minister of Canada, greeting Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Minister for Dominion Affairs.

EXAMPLE TO WORLD

HOPES FOR OTTAWA CONFERENCE

BRITISH VISITORS WELCOMED

London, July 19.
The British delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference reached Ottawa to-day and received an enthusiastic reception from a huge crowd.

They were officially welcomed by the Canadian Premier Mr. R. B. Bennett, and many other Canadian Ministers, and were later received by the Governor-General, Lord Bessborough.

Mr. Baldwin, chief British delegate, in the course of a statement at the conclusion of his journey, referred to the useful conference which took place during the passage from England with industrial advisers and fellow-delegates from other parts of the Empire who also travelled by the Empress of Britain. He said the progress made was a good augury of the helpful co-operation which

KAYE DON FEAT COMMENT

London, July 19.
Kaye Don's achievement in recapturing the water speed record for Britain, which now again holds the world records in air, on land and sea, has revived the discussion as to the practical utility of these high speeds.

The general impression, judging from the newspapers, is that their technical value is very considerable, and that they serve also as demonstrations of the quality of British material and personal.

The Daily Mail considers they can have been attained "only as the outcome of the finest engineering, science and constructive experience." The Morning Post says:—"There seems no limit to the ingenuity, perseverance and ambition of the blue-print men in Britain's experimental workshops."

The Manchester Guardian thinks "the gain to marine architecture and engineering from these attempts to pack the largest power into the smallest space is unquestioned."

The News-Chronicle points out that in 1920 the record speed for motor boats was 71 miles hour. In 12 years, it has risen to nearly 120, and in the last four it has risen by 35 miles per hour. The News-Chronicle concludes "It is not altogether without significance that it should be British engineers who built Miss England III and the engines which have captured so many other world records"—British Wireless.

he anticipates will mark the Conference proceedings.

DOUBLE OPPORTUNITY.
"We recognise a double opportunity," he said. "The delegates can reach agreements increasing trade between different parts of the Empire, thus promoting the greater well-being of every unit. But also we believe the methods we adopt will set an example to the whole world in breaking down obstacles to commerce and in aiding the revival of industry and trade, thus bringing the peoples safely through the tragic depression of recent times"—British Wireless.
